Soviet Fires Research Gadget On 3 1/2-Day Trip Toward Moon

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today fired a 3,130-pound interplanetary research station toward the moon, Moscow radio reported.

The radio said the unmanned space vehicle is scheduled to reach the moon in 3 1/2 days.

A statement by the Soviet news agency Tass said the launching was part of the Soviet program for exploration of outer space and planets of the solar system.

The radio report said the interplanetary station—called Moon IV—was shot from an orbiting space platform.

The use of such unmanned devices is a preliminary to attempts to land men on the moon, a goal of both Soviet and U.S. governments.

The head of the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has estimated at something under $20 billion the cost of landing the first Americans on the moon by 1970.

The NASA promoting a surveyor project which would soft-land instrument packages on the moon, to include some shots which would orbit that planet and not land.

The Russian device appeared to have a research mission of this type.

This is the first notable claim by the Russians in their moon shots since 1959, when they claimed two achievements:—Landing of a 614-pound rocket, Lunik II, on the moon Sept. 14, 1959, in a flight said to have proved the planet has no magnetic field.

—Dispatch Oct. 4, 1959 of a 614-pound space station called Lunik III to photograph the back side of the moon, a mission from which the Soviet Union released photographs Oct. 24 showing the hidden terrain was mostly mountains. It missed the moon.

Lunik I, launched Jan. 2, 1959, missed the moon by 4,700 miles and went into orbit around the sun.

The United States landed Ranger 4 on the back side of the moon April 26, 1962. This was an instrument jammed, 730-pound space craft. But the fantastically complex device had been turned by brain failure in flight into a hurtling hulk.

New State Ag, Resources Chiefs Named by Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes announced today appointment of John Stackhouse, 34, of Wakeman, Huron County, as director of agriculture to succeed Fred E. Morr of Xenia who becomes director of natural resources April 16.

Stackhouse operates the Humphrey Farm growing popcorn for Euclid Beach Park concessions near Cleveland.

A graduate of Ohio State University in agricultural engineering in 1951, he now is working on a doctor's degree.

The governor told a news conference that Morr has done an effective job in his present post and that he expected him to reorganize the Natural Resources Department.

"We are transferring ability," Rhodes explained.

The natural resources job pays $14,000 a year, the same as Morr's present salary. But the resources appointment by law is for six years. A bill is pending in the legislature to make that job and all cabinet posts coincide with the governor's four-year term.

Rhodes also announced two appointments to the Wildlife Council.

They were Kenneth E. Crawford, Republican, of Columbus, and Norman A. Amstutz, Democrat, Lima.

Both appointments will go to the Senate for confirmation.

The governor said he would ask the Senate to approve two appointments to the County Sheriff's Standard Car-Marking and Uniform Commission.

They are Sheriff V. Dean McAllister of Wyandot County, and Sheriff Bernard L. Keiter of Montgomery County, both Republicans.

On the Wildlife Council, Crawford, a writer and photographer on outdoor subjects, succeeds Dr. B. K. Jones of Cambridge whose appointment by the previous administration was rejected by the Senate.

Crawford has been a member of the Fish Committee and "Adopt a Stream" section of the League of Ohio Sportsmen for 20 years.

Amstutz is president of the Fort Amanda Gun Club, a director of the Allen County Fish and Game Association and for two years was state chairman of Ducks, Unlimited.

He succeeds Leonard Yochum of Sabina, whose term expired.

Experts Start State Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Management experts borrowed from major Ohio industries have begun the first comprehensive survey to streamline state government in modern memory, Gov. James A. Rhodes said today.

Seven persons directing a 20-man team will spend their first week planning their survey with Finance Director Richard Krabach.

He likened the team to a little Hoover Commission.

The seven will head teams delving into all departments, commissions, boards and bureaus, Krabach explained.

He estimated their first report on ways to eliminate duplication and increase efficiency should be ready within 90 days. They will start with his department, Krabach added.

Kennedy Revises Foreign Aid Plan, Cuts Fund Total

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked Congress today for $4.5 billion in new foreign aid money, slashing $420 million from the total he proposed before Gen. Lucius D. Clay's aid advisory committee reported the current program is much too big.

In a special message to Capitol Hill, Kennedy outlined a six-point program aimed at improving the big overseas assistance program. He drew heavily on findings of the Clay committee with which he agrees.

"Our world is near the climax of an historic convulsion," Kennedy said. He declared that U.S. aid will help determine whether large segments of the world chose "consent or coercion" as a way of life.

Despite noisy opposition from the very first days," Kennedy added, U.S. military and economic help has advanced freedom and the U.S. national interest around the world. Past Democratic and Republican presidents, a bipartisan majority in Congress and among the people and the Clay committee all agree on this, he said.

The presidential message launched the annual legislative battle over the politically unpopular aid bill.

A preliminary skirmish has already been set off by the recent report of the Clay committee, a group of 10 prominent citizens appointed by Kennedy to take a look at the aid program.

The Clay report said a "properly conceived and implemented" effort is essential to U.S. security—words which Kennedy quoted. But the group concluded the current program is a half-billion dollars too big. It passed no judgment on Kennedy's request for the next fiscal year.

Kennedy's new money request for the fiscal year starting next July 1 is now $4,525,000,000, or $420 million below the $4,945,000,000 he called for in his fiscal 1964 budget submitted in January before he got the Clay report.

Officials figured actual spending for fiscal 1964 would probably drop less than $100 million during

NEW RAIL WORK RULES SET

Big Welfare Reform Bill To Be Filed

State Measure Seeks To Streamline Aid Program for Counties

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The legislature will be handed today a broad bill to reform and streamline public assistance operations in all Ohio counties and cities. The idea is to make better use of welfare dollars.

The bill will come from the Ohio Citizens Council for Health and Welfare.

Wilson H. Posey of Worthington, executive director of the organization, termed the 76-page proposal an "omnibus public welfare bill" covering the multitude of welfare programs. He said it represents a 15-month study.

Sponsors will be Reps. Judson Hoy, R-Hamilton; Jacob Shawan, R-Franklin; Michael Sweeney, D-Cuyahoga, and Mrs. Bernice MacKenzie, D-Stark.

House members started their 13th work week Monday night with passage of a series of routine bills to make uniform the penalty for failure to buy dog tags; permit increases in the salaries of school superintendents during terms of their contracts, and change the title of "executive head" in local school districts to "local superintendent."

The big welfare-reform bill:—Is designed to get persons off welfare rolls through rehabilitation, training and retraining and to prevent chronic dependency.

—Would require all able-bodied recipients of relief to work.

—Would qualify Ohio for participation in the federal program of aid for dependent children of the unemployed.

—Would make awards to recipients of aid for the aged a county, instead of a state, problem. But the state would continue to foot the bill.

—Would merge all city-county relief organizations into county groups.

—Would eliminate so-called state matching of spending by local relief departments in favor of the state's assumption of all the non-federal share of a number of other programs for which counties now pay a large share. Counties, if they had the money, could set relief levels higher than those approved by the state.

Georgia Chief Told Football Secrets Bared

ATLANTA (AP)—Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook reported to Gov. Carl E. Sanders today that Wallace Butts gave advance information to Paul Bryant on last September's Georgia-Alabama football game which was "unethical, improper and unsportsmanlike."

"The furnishing of such information might well have vitally affected the outcome of the game in points and the margin of victory," Cook said in a summation of his findings after a two week investigation.

Sanders ordered the investigation after the Saturday Evening Post charged in its March 23 issue that there was collusion to affect the outcome of the game between Butts, recently resigned as Georgia athletic director, and Bryant, the University of Alabama coach.

Alabama won the game 35-0.

Cook said it had been established that George Burnett, Atlanta insurance salesman, had accidentally cut in on a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant and heard the Georgian giving information on his university's plays.

Cook said the evidence clearly indicates that the conversation was not "casual and general football conversation."

"This fact is established and corroborated by Dr. Frank Rose, president of the University of Alabama, in a letter to Dr. O.C. Aderhold, president of the University of Georgia, dated March 6, 1963."

"The conversation, as recorded by Burnett in his notes, dealt with specific offensive and defensive formations, patterns, plays, and information with respect to players of the University of Georgia football team."

Cook said he had questioned all members of the Georgia athletic staff, with the exception of Charlie Trippi, and members of the football team to determine he value and importance of information alleged to have been conveyed from Butts to Bryant with respect to the plays and the formations.

Cook said the letter from Rose to Aderhold "confirms the fact that the telephone conversations between Butts and Bryant took place and that offensive and defensive plays of the Georgia team were discussed."

Interstate 71 Work Is Started

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Work has started on the preliminary phases of construction of 6.58 miles of Interstate 71 in Warren County, the state highway department reported today.

The preliminary work includes drainage and excavation. The project will include both relocation and construction, costing an estimated $3,449,482, and include three bridges. The department said estimated peak employment will be 150 men with local workers to number 75.

Completion date is expected to be Nov. 30, 1964.

U.S. Confiscates Cuban Exile Boat As British Capture 17 Sea Raiders

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—U.S. customs agents confiscated a Cuban exile boat, British police captured a band of 17 sea raiders and a companion group of commandos continued toward Cuba in a series of lightning-like developments.

The exile boat, captured in Miami, was "outfitted for aggression," supervising customs agent Joseph Fortier announced Monday night.

He said the 40-foot yacht Alisan was seized Sunday night at North Miami Beach with two homemade bombs and a 20-millimeter cannon on board.

The boat's owner, Dr. Santiago Alvarez, said he did not know who had been using the boat or where it was used. No charges were filed. Fortier said the boat was empty when agents boarded it.

A group of commandos was reported near Cuba by boat on a mission to fight any Communist boats encountered and to contact rebels inside Cuba.

A companion boat with 17 men aboard was halted at Norman's Cay, a tiny island in the Exuma chain 200 miles north of the Cuban coast and 350 miles south of Miami.

British police took the men into custody, including an American adventurer, Jerry Buchanan, 24, of Miami. Buchanan was flown to Nassau where he said the British would release the men and return their equipment.

Buchanan told his brother, James Buchanan, a reporter for the Pompano Beach Sun Sentinel, by telephone, that he and his companions would be put aboard their 35-foot boat, Violin III, today in Nassau and escorted out of Bahamian waters.

The State Department said they were captured after the United States relayed a report to British authorities.

An exile announcement in Miami said the men were members of the anti-Communist Cuban Escombray Front army and that a second boat was reported 40 miles from the Cuban coast.

Dr. Orlando Bosch, coordinator general of the group, said he would file a legal protest that the Violin III had been seized in international waters.

He said the two boats left five days before the State Department issued restrictions against raiders on Saturday.

In Washington, the Kennedy administration was under pressure today to deny re-entry to the United States of refugees who participate in hit-and-run raids on Cuba.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said he was awaiting an answer from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to a March 20 letter in which he proposed enforcement of Neutrality Act provisions against Americans and non-citizens taking part in expeditions to other countries.

Morse, who heads a Foreign Relations subcommittee on Latin America, denounced the raids Monday as ineffective and dangerous.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said in an interview he agrees that the United States cannot permit the exiles to dictate the course of U.S. policy. But he said that policy isn't firm enough.

"The best thing we could do to reduce provocations in the area is to make it clear that the Soviets must withdraw all of their troops from the area," he said.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the administration first encouraged the refugees "but now it appears we are backing off."

"This is the type of thing that stems from giving Khrushchev a no-invasion pledge," he said. "When you promise not to invade a country, you've got to keep that pledge and that, apparently is what the President is doing."

Goldwater neglected to note that President Kennedy's pledge not to invade Cuba was contingent on on-site inspection in Cuba to determine if all Soviet offensive missiles had been withdrawn. Cuba has refused to permit the inspections.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., a Foreign Relations committeeman, said restrictions were necessary because the exile groups responsible for the raids were "playing with nuclear fire."

Carriers Say Featherbedding To End April 8

Strike Held Possible With 65,000 Jobs Due To Be Eliminated

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's railroads announced today that one minute after midnight April 8 they will make work rules changes that eventually will eliminate 65,000 jobs.

The announcement was made by the carriers' chief negotiator shortly after a U.S. Supreme Court mandate permitted the dissolution of an injunction which had helped up making of rules changes since last summer.

In a brief announcement, James E. Wolfe, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference and chief rail negotiator, said:

"The nation's railroads today notified the National (Railway) Mediation Board that at 12:01 a.m. on April 8 we will make work rules changes intended to end the featherbedding problem."

"We understand President Kennedy probably will name an emergency board before the unions set a strike date. This will prevent any stoppage for at least 60 days."

A spokesman for the Switchmen's Union of North America issued a statement which said represented the attitude of the five labor organizations involved.

It read:

"Despite the assurance of the Supreme Court that we may resort to self-help in achieving our bargaining demands we contemplate taking no unilateral action. We are continuing to press for a negotiated fair settlement."

The railroads said they are planning to put into effect the rule changes they proposed in the fall of 1959. Besides elimination of an estimated 40,000 firemen on diesel locomotives in road and yard service, they plan to change crew sizes and banish the lines of demarcation between various unions in operating crews. They also plan a revamping of mileage pay rates so that they will provide for runs of 160 miles for a full day's pay instead of the current 100 miles.

In Cleveland, the five brotherhoods issued the following joint statement:

"The railway labor organizations are cooperating with the government to avoid any interruption to railroad service as a result of a unilateral promulgation of changes in pay and working conditions announced by railroad management."

"To that end, we have been in touch with the secretary of labor. We expect that a crisis will be averted by the prompt appointment of an emergency board under the Railway Labor Act. Such an emergency board can make a contribution in bringing the parties together in collective bargaining, leading to a fair and peaceful settlement."

"We agree with the secretary of labor that this dispute must ultimately be settled by the parties themselves."

In Washington, the National Mediation Board said it was immediately notifying President Kennedy that a national emergency rail dispute exists, the only remaining step necessary before Kennedy names a presidential board to delay a rail strike at least 60 days.

"The unions have told us they would run up a strike date," said NMB member Francis A. O'Neill Jr. "That's enough for us."

Kennedy was expected to act late today or sometime Wednesday, depending upon when the necessary papers and arrangements could be completed.

American with Cuban Raiders Denies Breaking Any U.S. Law

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following exclusive interview with Jerry Buchanan was obtained by his brother, James Buchanan, reporter for the Pompano Beach Sun-Sentinel, and made available to The Associated Press.

By JAMES BUCHANAN

POMPAÑO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The American who acted as spokesman for a band of anti-Castro sea raiders in securing their release from British custody told me he did not feel he had broken any neutrality law.

Jerry Buchanan, 24, said in an exclusive interview by telephone from Nassau Monday night that the raiders' boats, Violin III, had not been armed or manned in this country.

The 35-foot Violin III was captured at Norman's Cay, a tiny island in the Bahamas. Buchanan said Magistrate John Bailly freed the band of 17 men and released their boat with a decree that they had not violated any law in British territory.

The boat put into the island to refuel, Buchanan said, and he and one of the Cubans aboard under command of Maj. Evelio Duque went ashore unarmed.

"We approached a barracks-type building where we encountered a detachment of Bahamian police," Buchanan said. "They had been there since Saturday morning waiting for us to come in. They knew all about us."

"The police came out of the building and said, 'Is your name Buchanan?' They placed both of us under detention."

He reported, a platoon of Bahamian police led by a British officer went to the boat, where they ordered the others to come ashore.

Buchanan said the Violin III was not captured at sea as reported and that the British frigate credited with the capture steamed into the area Sunday afternoon.

"The police searched the boat and captured a few of the boys who were well hidden from view of anyone on shore," he added. "They also found the arms which we had stored on the boat."

"Police told us they had us under surveillance all Sunday morning while we were trying to dock. After finding the arms they immediately announced we were being detained. The police refused to use the term 'arrest.' They said we were merely 'detained.'"

Buchanan said a high official of the Bahamas government, whom he declined to identify, arrived and said he was acting as a delegate from London, representing the Admiralty.

"Prior to the official's arrival, however, the frigate was spotted off the east coast of the key," Buchanan said.

"The navy came ashore in three landing launches. One of these carried a platoon of men completely equipped with machine guns and ready to fight. The police then turned us over to the navy."

"I was flown to Nassau at 7 p.m. Sunday. I went to court Monday afternoon and we're now out on bond. We're supposed to be put back aboard the boat and escorted out of British waters with our equipment, guns and any of our personal effects."

Grand Jury Indicts 7

Seven persons were indicted yesterday by the April term of the Pickaway County Grand Jury.

The jury returned the seven "true bills" and two "no bills" at about 3 p. m. yesterday. Only nine cases were before this term of the jury—considerably less than the usual 20-25.

Three of the cases involved Columbus men who were charged with assault with a dangerous weapon by State Patrolman David L. Dotson. They are Robert Monroe, George Hughes and James Thomas.

Others indicted include John Piccione, failure to provide for his minor children; Bernard Ray Davis, forcible entry of an inhabited dwelling in the night season; Edward Rowland and William Rowland, both on charges of robbery.

CASES dismissed by the jury were: Russell Fausnaugh, failure to provide for his minor children; and Andy Joe Hackney, assault with a deadly weapon.

Those indicted by the jury are scheduled to appear before Judge William Ammer for arraignment at 10 a. m. Thursday.

In making their regular inspection of the jail and sheriff's residence, jurors reported that the jail was "very clean, sanitary and in an orderly condition."

The jurors also recommended that the sink in the kitchen of the jail be raised to a more convenient level for kitchen employees.

Guatemalan Reds To Be Deported, Aim

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP)—Vowing to fight communism "to the death," Guatemala's new dictator, Col. Enrique Peralta announced Monday night he will deport all Communists in the country and let no others enter.

The provisional president told a news conference Guatemala is calm following Sunday's military coup. But the Defense Ministry charged Communist agitators are planning disorders.

Communist demonstrations were banned, but a mass rally was planned today to register public approval for Peralta, 54, an army officer and former diplomat who seized power with the avowed purpose of cracking down on Communist subversion.

Most political parties in this Central American nation approved the coup, although Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, the elected president it deposed, was a militant anti-Communist and a conservative.

Alberto Herrate Gonzalez, the new foreign minister, expressed hope for prompt recognition by all members of the Organization of American States.

The request presented a problem for the United States and those of Guatemala's anti-Communist allies in South America who feel freely elected governments are the best defense against communism.

Speeding Cop Granted Immunity on Appeal

CINCINNATI (AP)—The 1st District State Court of Appeals has ruled a patrolman has civil immunity while pursuing a speeding motorist through a red light.

The court overturned a Common Pleas Court award Monday of $500 damages to Victoria Ling, who was 10 months old when the car in which she was riding collided with the cruiser of patrolman James Hoekstra while he was chasing a speeder.

The collision occurred in July 1958.

Ex-Wilmington Pilot Named Yale Aide

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Head Football Coach John Pont of Yale announced Tuesday the competition of his varsity staff.

The holdovers are Harry Jacunski, Fritz Barzilauskas and Gib Holgate and the latest newcomer is C. W. Van Schoyck former head coach at Wilmington, Ohio, College.

Others previously named are John Fry, Carmen Cozza, Herb Fairchild and Ernie Plank, all of whom assisted Pont at Miami, Ohio, last year.

Pennsy GOP Chief Asks Tax Boost

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Gov. William Scranton proposed a record state budget of $1,121,453,552 today. To balance it he requested expanded state sales taxes and an increased cigarette levy.

The proposed budget was for the state's general fund to cover day-to-day operations of the commonwealth. Special fund budgets—such as that for highways—will be presented later.

To pay for the $138,253,552 increase over the 1962-63 budget the governor proposed:

(1) Raise the rate of the (4 per cent) selective sales and use tax one-half of one per cent, which will yield $52 million.

(2) Extend the sales tax to include clothing, which at the new rate will yield $72 million; and

(3) Raise the tax on cigarettes 1 cent per pack, which will yield $13 million.

"The total yield of this tax program will be $139 million, which Pennsylvania needs to meet next year's obligations."

"In addition, I recommend that the General Assembly levy an additional tax of one cent per pack on cigarettes to become effective June 1, 1964, so that Pennsylvania will be better able to meet the mandated increases for that period."

Dayton Unionists May Be Enjoined

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Virginia Homes, Inc., citing recent acts of vandalism at its Park Lawn apartment project in suburban Kettering, has asked for an injunction against the Dayton Building Trades Council.

The petition filed in Montgomery County Common Pleas Court seeks an order restraining the council or any of its 21 affiliated unions from impeding work on the project.

It listed several recent incidents, including the dynamiting of a truck and the setting of a fire in an office trailer.

Interstate 71 Work Is Started

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Work has started on the preliminary phases of construction of 6.58 miles of Interstate 71 in Warren County, the state highway department reported today.

The preliminary work includes drainage and excavation. The project will include both relocation and construction, costing an estimated $3,449,482, and include three bridges. The department said estimated peak employment will be 150 men with local workers to number 75.

Completion date is expected to be Nov. 30, 1964.

U.S. Confiscates Cuban Exile Boat As British Capture 17 Sea Raiders

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—U.S. customs agents confiscated a Cuban exile boat, British police captured a band of 17 sea raiders and a companion group of commandos continued toward Cuba in a series of lightning-like developments.

The exile boat, captured in Miami, was "outfitted for aggression," supervising customs agent Joseph Fortier announced Monday night.

He said the 40-foot yacht Alisan was seized Sunday night at North Miami Beach with two homemade bombs and a 20-millimeter cannon on board.

The boat's owner, Dr. Santiago Alvarez, said he did not know who had been using the boat or where it was used. No charges were filed. Fortier said the boat was empty when agents boarded it.

A group of commandos was reported nearing Cuba by boat on a mission to fight any Communist boats encountered and to contact rebels inside Cuba.

A companion boat with 17 men aboard was halted at Norman's Cay, a tiny island in the Exuma chain 200 miles north of the Cuban coast and 350 miles south of Miami.

British police took the men into custody, including an American adventurer, Jerry Buchanan, 24, of Miami. Buchanan was flown to Nassau where he said the British would release the men and return their equipment.

Buchanan told his brother, James Buchanan, a reporter for the Pompano Beach Sun Sentinel, by telephone, that he and his companions would be put aboard their 35-foot boat, Violin III, today in Nassau and escorted out of Bahamian waters.

The State Department said they were captured after the United States relayed a report to British authorities.

An exile announcement in Miami said the men were members of the anti-Communist Cuban Es-cambray Front army and that a second boat was reported 40 miles from the Cuban coast.

Dr. Orlando Bosch, coordinator general of the group, said he would file a legal protest that the Violin III had been seized in international waters.

He said the two boats left five days before the State Department issued restrictions against raiders on Saturday.

In Washington, the Kennedy administration was under pressure today to deny re-entry to the United States of refugees who participate in hit-and-run raids on Cuba.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said he was awaiting an answer from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to a March 20 letter in which he proposed enforcement of Neutrality Act provisions against Americans and non-citizens taking part in expeditions to other countries.

Morse, who heads a Foreign Relations subcommittee on Latin America, denounced the raids Monday as ineffective and dangerous.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said in an interview he agrees that the United States cannot permit the exiles to dictate the course of U.S. policy. But he said that policy isn't firm enough.

Georgia Chief Told Football Secrets Bared

ATLANTA (AP)—Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook reported to Gov. Carl E. Sanders today that Wallace Butts gave advance information to Paul Bryant on last September's Georgia-Alabama football game which was "unethical, improper and unsportsmanlike."

"The furnishing of such information might well have vitally affected the outcome of the game in points and the margin of victory," Cook said in a summation of his findings after a two week investigation.

Sanders ordered the investigation after the Saturday Evening Post charged in its March 23 issue that there was collusion to affect the outcome of the game between Butts, recently resigned as Georgia athletic director, and Bryant, the University of Alabama coach.

Alabama won the game 35-0. Cook said it had been established that George Burnett, Atlanta insurance salesman, had accidentally cut in on a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant and heard the Georgian giving information on his university's plays.

Cook said the evidence clearly indicates that the conversation was not "casual and general football conversation."

"This fact is established and corroborated by Dr. Frank Rose, president of the University of Alabama, in a letter to Dr. O.C. Aderhold, president of the University of Georgia, dated March 6, 1963.

"The conversation, as recorded by Burnett in his notes, dealt with specific offensive and defensive formations, patterns, plays, and information with respect to players of the University of Georgia football team."

Cook said he had questioned all members of the Georgia athletic staff, with the exception of Charlie Tripp, and members of the football team to determine he value and importance of information alleged to have been conveyed from Butts to Bryant with respect to the plays and the formations.

Cook said the letter from Rose to Aderhold "confirms the fact that the telephone conversations between Butts and Bryant took place and that offensive and defensive plays of the Georgia team were discussed."

Ex-Wilmington Pilot Named Yale Aide

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Head Football Coach John Pont of Yale announced Tuesday the competition of his varsity staff.

The holdovers are Harry Jacunski, Fritz Barilauskas and Gib Holgate and the latest newcomer is C. W. Van Schoev former head coach at Wilmington, Ohio, College.

Others previously named are John Fry, Carmen Cozza, Herb Fairchild and Ernie Plank, all of whom assisted Pont at Miami, Ohio, last year.

American with Cuban Raiders Denies Breaking Any U.S. Law

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following exclusive interview with Jerry Buchanan was obtained by his brother, James Buchanan, reporter for the Pompano Beach Sun-Sentinel, and made available to The Associated Press.

By JAMES BUCHANAN

POMPAHO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The American who acted as spokesman for a band of anti-Castro sea raiders in securing their release from British custody told me he did not feel he had broken any neutrality law.

Jerry Buchanan, 24, said in an exclusive interview by telephone from Nassau Monday night that the raiders' boats, Violin III, had not been armed or manned in this country.

The 35-foot Violin III was captured at Norman's Cay, a tiny island in the Bahamas. Buchanan said Magistrate John Bailly freed the band of 17 men and released their boat with a decree that they had not violated any law in British territory.

The boat put into the island to refuel, Buchanan said, and he and one of the Cubans aboard under command of Maj. Evelio Duque went ashore unarmed.

"We approached a barracks-type building where we encountered a detachment of Bahamian police," Buchanan said. "They had been there since Saturday morning waiting for us to come in. They knew all about us."

"The police came out of the building and said, 'Is your name Buchanan?' They placed both of us under detention."

He reported, a platoon of Bahamian police led by a British officer went to the boat, where they ordered the others to come ashore.

Buchanan said the Violin III was not captured at sea as reported and that the British frigate credited with the capture steamed into the area Sunday afternoon.

"The police searched the boat and captured a few of the boys who were well hidden from view of anyone on shore," he added. "They also found the arms which we had stored on the boat."

"Police told us they had us under surveillance all Sunday morning while we were trying to dock. After finding the arms they immediately announced we were being detained. The police refused to use the term 'arrest.' They said we were merely 'detained.'"

Buchanan said a high official of the Bahamas government, whom he declined to identify, arrived and said he was acting as a delegate from London, representing the Admiralty.

"Prior to the official's arrival, however, the frigate was spotted off the east coast of the key," Buchanan said.

"The navy came ashore in three landing launches. One of them carried a platoon of men completely equipped with machine-guns and ready to fight. The police then turned us over to the navy."

"I was flown to Nassau at 7 p.m. Sunday. I went to court Monday afternoon and we're now out on bond. We're supposed to be put back aboard the boat and escorted out of British waters with our equipment, guns and any of our personal effects."

Federal Judge Sets Mississippi Trial

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—A federal judge has rejected a Justice Department request for an immediate court order barring interference with Negro vote registration efforts.

But U.S. Dist. Judge Claude F. Clayton of Tupelo plans a hearing on the matter Thursday at Greenwood, Miss.

This city of 22,000, in the heart of Mississippi's cotton-growing area, has been stirred by racial unrest. Negroes, who outnumber white persons nearly 2-1, have spurred a vote registration drive. Of Leflore County's 6,400 registered voters, only 47, are Negroes.

Grand Jury Indicts 7

Seven persons were indicted yesterday by the April term of the Pickaway County Grand Jury.

The jury returned the seven "true bills" and two "no bills" at about 3 p. m. yesterday. Only nine cases were before this term of the jury—considerably less than the usual 20-25.

Three of the cases involved Columbus men who were charged with assault with a dangerous weapon by State Patrolman David L. Dotson. They are Robert Monroe, George Hughes and James Thomas.

Others indicted include John Piccione, failure to provide for his minor children; Bernard Ray Davis, forcible entry of an inhabited dwelling in the night season; Edward Rowland and William Rowland, both on charges of robbery.

CASES dismissed by the jury were: Russell Fausnaugh, failure to provide for his minor children; and Andy Joe Hackney, assault with a deadly weapon.

Those indicted by the jury are scheduled to appear before Judge William Ammer for arraignment at 10 a. m. Thursday.

In making their regular inspection of the jail and sheriff's residence, jurors reported that the jail was "very clean, sanitary and in an orderly condition."

The jurors also recommended that the sink in the kitchen of the jail be raised to a more convenient level for kitchen employees.

Pennsy GOP Chief Asks Tax Boost

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Gov. William Scranton proposed a record state budget of $1,121,453,552 today. To balance it he requested expanded state sales taxes and an increased cigarette levy.

The proposed budget was for the state's general fund to cover day-to-day operations of the commonwealth. Special fund budgets—such as that for highways—will be presented later.

To pay for the $138,253,552 increase over the 1962-63 budget the governor proposed:

"(1) Raise the rate of the (4 per cent) selective sales and use tax one-half of one per cent, which will yield $52 million.

"(2) Extend the sales tax to include clothing, which at the new rate will yield $72 million; and (3) Raise the tax on cigarettes 1 cent per pack, which will yield $13 million.

"The total yield of this tax program will be $139 million, which Pennsylvania needs to meet next year's obligations.

"In addition, I recommend that the General Assembly levy an additional tax of one cent per pack on cigarettes to become effective June 1, 1964, so that Pennsylvania will be better able to meet the mandated increases for that period."

Carriers Say Featherbedding To End April 8

Strike Held Possible With 65,000 Jobs Due To Be Eliminated

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's railroads announced today that one minute after midnight April 8 they will make work rules changes that eventually will eliminate 65,000 jobs.

The announcement was made by the carriers' chief negotiator shortly after a U.S. Supreme Court mandate permitted the dissolution of an injunction which had helped up making of rules changes since last summer.

In a brief announcement, James E. Wolfe, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference and chief rail negotiator, said:

"The nation's railroads today notified the National (Railway) Mediation Board that at 12:01 a.m. on April 8 we will make work rules changes intended to end the featherbedding problem.

"We understand President Kennedy probably will name an emergency board before the unions set a strike date. This will prevent any stoppage for at least 60 days."

A spokesman for the Switchmen's Union of North America issued a statement which he said represented the attitude of the five labor organizations involved. It read:

"Despite the assurance of the Supreme Court that we may resort to self-help in achieving our bargaining demands we contemplate taking no unilateral action. We are continuing to press for a negotiated fair settlement."

The railroads said they are planning to put into effect the rule changes they proposed in the fall of 1959. Besides elimination of an estimated 40,000 firemen on diesel locomotives in road and yard service, they plan to change crew sizes and banish the lines of demarcation between various unions in operating crews. They also plan a revamping of mileage pay rates so that they will provide for runs of 160 miles for a full day's pay instead of the current 100 miles.

In Cleveland, the five brotherhoods issued the following joint statement:

"The railway labor organizations are cooperating with the government to avoid any interruption to railroad service as a result of a unilateral promulgation of changes in pay and working conditions announced by railroad management.

"To that end, we have been in touch with the secretary of labor. We expect that a crisis will be averted by the prompt appointment of an emergency board under the Railway Labor Act. Such an emergency board can make a contribution in bringing the parties together in collective bargaining, leading to a fair and peaceful settlement.

"We agree with the secretary of labor that this dispute must ultimately be settled by the parties themselves."

In Washington, the National Mediation Board said it was immediately notifying President Kennedy that a national emergency rail dispute exists, the only remaining step necessary before Kennedy names a presidential board to delay a rail strike at least 60 days.

"The unions have told us they would run up a strike date," said NMB member Francis A. O'Neill Jr. "That's enough for us."

Kennedy was expected to act late today or sometime Wednesday, depending upon when the necessary papers and arrangements could be completed.

Dayton Unionists May Be Enjoined

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Virginia Homes, Inc., citing recent acts of vandalism at its Park Lawn apartment project in suburban Kettering, has asked for an injunction against the Dayton Building Trades Council.

The petition filed in Montgomery County Common Pleas Court seeks an order restraining the council or any of its 21 affiliated unions from impeding work on the project.

It listed several recent incidents, including the dynamiting of a truck and the setting of a fire in an office trailer.

Experts Start State Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Management experts borrowed from major Ohio industries have begun the first comprehensive survey to streamline state government in modern memory, Gov. James A. Rhodes said today.

Seven persons directing a 20-man team will spend their first week planning their survey with Finance Director Richard Krabach.

He likened the team to a little Hoover Commission.

The seven will head teams delving into all departments, commissions, boards and bureaus, Krabach explained.

He estimated their first report on ways to eliminate duplication and increase efficiency should be ready within 90 days. They will start with his department, Krabach added.

Kennedy Revises Foreign Aid Plan, Cuts Fund Total

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked Congress today for $4.5 billion in new foreign aid money, slashing $420 million from the total he proposed before Gen. Lucius D. Clay's aid advisory committee reported the current program is much too big.

In a special message to Capitol Hill, Kennedy outlined a six-point program aimed at improving the big overseas assistance program. He drew heavily on findings of the Clay committee with which he agrees.

"Our world is near the climax of an historic convulsion," Kennedy said. He declared that U.S. aid will help determine whether large segments of the world chose "consent or coercion" as a way of life.

"Despite noisy opposition from the very first days," Kennedy added, U.S. military and economic help has advanced freedom and the U.S. national interest around the world. Past Democratic and Republican presidents, a bipartisan majority in Congress and among the people and the Clay committee all agree on this, he said.

The presidential message launched the annual legislative battle over the politically unpopular aid bill.

A preliminary skirmish has already been set off by the recent report of the Clay committee, a group of 10 prominent citizens appointed by Kennedy to take a look at the aid program.

The Clay report said a "properly conceived and implemented" effort is essential to U.S. security—words which Kennedy quoted. But the group concluded the current program is a half-billion dollars too big. It passed no judgment on Kennedy's request for the next fiscal year.

Kennedy's new money request for the fiscal year starting next July 1 is now $4,525,000,000, or $420 million below the $4,945,000,000 he called for in his fiscal 1964 budget submitted in January before he got the Clay report.

Officials figured actual spending for fiscal 1964 would probably drop less than $100 million during the year as a result of the proposed savings because spending lags behind appropriations.

In the new money request, $1,405,000,000 would go for arms aid—a $75-million reduction from the January figure—and $3,120,000,000 for economic assistance, a $345-million cutback.

Most of the economic aid savings, officials said, stem from postponements of the time when developing countries are expected to be ready to qualify for loans and from reducing from $400 million to $300 million the amount of the presidential contingency fund used for emergencies. They said $300 million seemed ample for any foreseeable emergencies.

Sounding part of the theme in the Clay report, Kennedy said the main new initiative in the 1964 program would be to encourage private investment in underdeveloped countries.

To this end he proposed: —Amending the U.S. tax law so American firms can deduct part of their investments in these lands from U.S. income taxes. Officials said the proposed tax credit will probably exceed 10 per cent of the amount invested.

Kennedy . . .

—Expanding U.S. government guarantees to American investors overseas against losses from expropriation and other political causes. Officials said the guarantee program against such risks would be raised from $1.3 billion to $2.5 billion under Kennedy's proposal. This does not require new appropriations.

The President also requested abolition of the ban Congress included in last year's trade law against giving most-favored-nation tariff concessions to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia.

Kennedy said the "distinguished" Clay committee, the new foreign aid chief, David Bell, and the administration are in "fundamental agreement" regarding six key recommendations:

1. "To apply stricter standards of selectivity and self-help in aiding developing countries."
2. "To achieve a reduction and ultimate elimination of U.S. assistance by enabling nations to stand on their own as rapidly as possible."
3. "To secure the increased participation of other industrialized nations in sharing the cost of international development assistance."
4. "To lighten any adverse impact of the aid program on our own balance of payments and economy."
5. "To continue to assist in the defense of countries under threat of external and internal communist attack."
6. "To increase the role of private investment and other non-federal resources in assisting developing nations."

Car Recovered In Tennessee; Entry Solved

A car owned by Charles Zimmerman of 907 S. Washington St., stolen from in front of his home Friday night or Saturday morning has been recovered in Chattanooga, Tenn.

The recovery by Chattanooga police apparently has solved two crimes committed in this area. Articles removed from a New Holland drug store the same night were found in the auto.

The car theft and store entry allegedly were committed by two escapees from the Lancaster Boys Industrial School. One of the juveniles was apprehended in Chattanooga.

Taken from the Ankrom Drug Store at New Holland were approximately 45 cartons of cigarettes, nine pounds of nuts, more than 30 pounds of candy, three boxes of cigars, sunglasses, shirts, shoes, belts and an undetermined amount of small change. The entry was investigated by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

ACCORDING to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, a major portion of the merchandise was recovered.

Police said Zimmerman's car was taken after the two youths abandoned an auto here that had been stolen earlier in Lancaster. The Fairfield County vehicle was found early Saturday morning by city officers.

The Zimmerman car and one apprehended juvenile are to be returned from Tennessee this week.

'Juvenile Decency' Award Given Texas Boy by Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy presented a 17-year-old Texas boy with a "juvenile decency" award today and received in return a "JFK" brandinged iron.

Kennedy handed a gold plaque to Ignacio (Lefty) Chavez of El Paso. This "Boy of the Year" award was presented on behalf of the Boys' Clubs of America for "superlative service to his home, school, church, community and boys' club."

Young Chavez, of Spanish and Mexican descent, is an honor student in high school, varsity baseball player, student leader and a participant in more than 50 community activities.

He also works at odd jobs to supplement the family income. His blind father is a broom seller.

Kennedy, in offering warmest congratulations, said Chavez, "In a whole variety of ways typifies our hopes for the future of the country."

As one of his community activities young Chavez is a volunteer guide at the Light House for the Blind where the brooms his father sells are made.

When he was younger, he used to guide his father through the streets as he sold his wares.

He pitched in to help the family purse by working as a vendor at sports events and during the summer labors in a tanning plant. The money is turned over to his mother to help feed the family of five which is of Mexican-Spanish descent.

The award also means a $1,000 scholarship from the Rader's Digest Foundation — one big step along the way to becoming a law student or a midshipman at Annapolis.

"I'll take whichever one comes first," says Lefty, who has been nominated as an alternate appointee to the Naval Academy by Rep. Ed Foreman R-Tex.

Berger Treats Woman Injured Doing Laundry

Hanging laundry in the backyard to dry proved hazardous to an area woman yesterday afternoon and required emergency treatment at Berger Hospital along with four other persons receiving minor injuries.

Joan Karshner, 32, Route 1, tripped on a metal object while hanging her laundry. She was taken to Berger where she was treated for a laceration of the left leg.

Others treated in the Emergency Room included: Duane Miller, 11-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller, 337 1/2 E. Corwin St., who fell from his walker and cut his head. He was treated for a lacerated forehead.

Larry Plum, 17, of 610 Ridge-wood Drive, was treated for an injury of the right ankle.

A local General Electric worker, Howard Fish, 23, Kingston, lacerated his left arm while at work and was treated at the hospital.

Duane Arledge, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Arledge, 310 Mingo St., fell from a parked car and struck his head on the curb. He suffered a puncture wound of the scalp.

All patients were released following treatment.

Pickaway One Of 4 Counties In NFO Zone

Pickaway has been designated as one of four counties comprising the Sixth Geographical Zone in the Columbus marketing area, according to a report today by the National Farmer Organization.

Other counties in the zone are Fayette, Fairfield and Ross. The Columbus marketing area is comprised of seven geographical zones.

NFO committees on meat, dairy and grain from the Sixth Zone discussed the structure during a meeting conducted at the local Fairgrounds. Robert Barnes, Pickaway County NFO chairman, presided.

Previous to this meeting, the membership of the participating counties had selected five - man boards to represent meat producers, grain producers and dairy producers. These were the boards which met here.

ELECTED to represent the Sixth Zone on the Columbus area bargaining committee were: grain, Asa Fannin, Fayette, committeeman, and Miles Kahler, Pickaway, alternate; meat, J. Herbert Perrill, Fayette, committeeman, and William Betz, Fairfield, alternate; dairy, Robert Barnes, Pickaway, committeeman, and Lee Rowe, Fayette, alternate.

These committees, along with those from the other six geographical zones, will comprise the area bargaining boards of the Columbus bargaining area.

It was pointed out that there will be three separate area bargaining boards, each bargaining with reference to its own commodity.

Barnes read a communication from National President Oren Lee Staley in which it was pointed out that satisfactory progress was being made in the negotiating of bargaining contracts, especially in the field of dairying.

Staley also pointed out that the next two weeks, before the start of the busy season, would be important as far as membership drives were concerned.

NFO farmers from counties all over Ohio attended the Agricultural Marketing Conference at Ohio State University last week.

Sidney Hoose, speaker from California said collective bargaining for agriculture products would not be easy to obtain by the farmers for what they have to sell, but NFO is trying its utmost, while other groups of people are sitting back and condemning, he said.

5 Middletown Men Tied to Burglary Ring

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—One of five Middletown area men, charged in what police term a widespread burglary ring, was being brought here from Cincinnati today for arraignment on burglary charges.

Detectives J. W. Stein and A. R. Hanner said James E. Frazier, 28, arrested in Cincinnati last week and charged with house-breaking there, is accused in a burglary operation that netted at least $20,000 in merchandise over the past several months.

A long string of thefts have occurred in this area and more than 100 in Hamilton County and at Manchester, Ky., in recent weeks, the detectives said.

Two other suspects, Ralph Stephens, 27, and Emanuel Snelling, 28, pleaded innocent to burglary charges when they were arraigned here Monday. Bond was set at $50,000 each.

Cincinnati police arrested the fourth and fifth persons and charged them with receiving stolen goods. They are Eldon Powell, 21, and Jimmy Sizemore, about 30.

of their investments in these lands from U.S. income taxes. Officials said the proposed tax credit will probably exceed 10 per cent of the amount invested.

—Expanding U.S. government guarantees to American investors overseas against losses from expropriation and other political causes. Officials said the guarantee program against such risks would be raised from $1.3 billion to $2.5 billion under Kennedy's proposal. This does not require new appropriations.

The President also requested abolition of the ban Congress included in last year's trade law against giving most-favored-nation tariff concessions to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia.

Kennedy said the "distinguished" Clay committee, the new foreign aid chief, David Bell, and the administration are in "fundamental agreement" regarding six key recommendations:

1. "To apply stricter standards of selectivity and self-help in aiding developing countries."

2. "To achieve a reduction and ultimate elimination of U.S. assistance by enabling nations to stand on their own as rapidly as possible."

3. "To secure the increased participation of other industrialized nations in sharing the cost of international development assistance."

4. "To lighten any adverse impact of the aid program on our own balance of payments and economy."

5. "To continue to assist in the defense of countries under threat of external and internal communist attack."

6. "To increase the role of private investment and other non-federal resources in assisting developing nations."

Car Recovered In Tennessee; Entry Solved

A car owned by Charles Zimmerman of 907 S. Washington St., stolen from in front of his home Friday night or Saturday morning has been recovered in Chattanooga, Tenn.

The recovery by Chattanooga police apparently has solved two crimes committed in this area. Articles removed from a New Holland drug store the same night were found in the auto.

The car theft and store entry allegedly were committed by two escapees from the Lancaster Boys Industrial School. One of the juveniles was apprehended in Chattanooga.

Taken from the Ankrom Drug Store at New Holland were approximately 45 cartons of cigarettes, nine pounds of nuts, more than 30 pounds of candy, three boxes of cigars, sunglasses, shirts, shoes, belts and an undetermined amount of small change. The entry was investigated by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

ACCORDING to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, a major portion of the merchandise was recovered.

Police said Zimmerman's car was taken after the two youths abandoned an auto here that had been stolen earlier in Lancaster. The Fairchild County vehicle was found early Saturday morning by city officers.

The Zimmerman car and one apprehended juvenile are to be returned from Tennessee this week.

'Juvenile Decency' Award Given Texas Boy by Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy presented a 17-year-old Texas boy with a "juvenile decency" award today and received in return a "JFK" branding iron.

Kennedy handed a gold plaque to Ignacio (Lefty) Chavez of El Paso. This "Boy of the Year" award was presented on behalf of the Boys' Clubs of America for "superlative service to his home, school, church, community and boys' club."

Young Chavez, of Spanish and Mexican descent, is an honor student in high school, varsity baseball player, student leader and a participant in more than 50 community activities.

He also works at odd jobs to supplement the family income. His blind father is a broom seller. Kennedy, in offering warmest congratulations, said Chavez, "In a whole variety of ways typifies our hopes for the future of the country."

As one of his community activities young Chavez is a volunteer guide at the Light House for the Blind where the brooms his father sells are made.

When he was younger, he used to guide his father through the streets as he sold his wares.

He pitched in to help the family purse by working as a vendor at sports events and during the summer labors in a touting plant. The money is turned over to his mother to help feed the family of five which is of Mexican-Spanish descent.

The award also means a $1,000 scholarship from the Rader's Digest Foundation — one big step along the way to becoming a law student or a midshipman at Annapolis.

"I'll take whichever one comes first," says Lefty, who has been nominated as an alternate appointee to the Naval Academy by Rep. Ed Foreman R-Tex.

Berger Treats Woman Injured Doing Laundry

Hanging laundry in the backyard to dry proved hazardous to an area woman yesterday afternoon and required emergency treatment at Berger Hospital along with four other persons receiving minor injuries.

Joan Karshner, 32, Route 1, tripped on a metal object while hanging her laundry. She was taken to Berger where she was treated for a laceration of the left leg.

Others treated in the Emergency Room included:

Duane Miller, 11-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller, 337 1/2 E. Corwin St., who fell from his walker and cut his head. He was treated for a lacerated forehead.

Larry Plum, 17, of 610 Ridge-wood Drive, was treated for an injury of the right ankle.

A local General Electric worker, Howard Fish, 23, Kingston, lacerated his left arm while at work and was treated at the hospital.

Duane Arledge, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Arledge, 310 Mingo St., fell from a parked car and struck his head on the curb. He suffered a puncture wound of the scalp.

All patients were released following treatment.

Local Draft Board Inducts 4 Volunteers

Pickaway One Of 4 Counties In NFO Zone

Pickaway has been designated as one of four counties comprising the Sixth Geographical Zone in the Columbus marketing area, according to a report today by the National Farmer Organization.

Other counties in the zone are Fayette, Fairfield and Ross. The Columbus marketing area is comprised of seven geographical zones.

NFO committees on meat, dairy and grain from the Sixth Zone discussed the structure during a meeting conducted at the local Fairgrounds. Robert Barnes, Pickaway County NFO chairman, presided.

Previous to this meeting, the membership of the participating counties had selected five - man boards to represent meat producers, grain producers and dairy producers. These were the boards which met here.

ELECTED TO represent the Sixth Zone on the Columbus area bargaining committee were: grain, Asa Fannin, Fayette, committeeman, and Miles Kahler, Pickaway, alternate; meat, J. Herbert Perrill, Fayette, committeeman, and William Betz, Fairfield, alternate; dairy, Robert Barnes, Pickaway, committeeman, and Lee Rowe, Fayette, alternate.

These committeemen, along with those from the other six geographical zones, will comprise the area bargaining boards of the Columbus bargaining area.

It was pointed out that there will be three separate area bargaining boards, each bargaining with reference to its own commodity.

Barnes read a communication from National President Oren Lee Staley in which it was pointed out that a satisfactory progress was being made in the negotiating of bargaining contracts, especially in the field of dairying.

Staley also pointed out that the next two weeks, before the start of the busy season, would be important as far as membership drives were concerned.

NFO farmers from counties all over Ohio attended the Agricultural Marketing Conference at Ohio State University last week.

Sidney Hoose, speaker from California said collective bargaining for agriculture products would not be easy to obtain by the farmers for what they have to sell, but NFO is trying its utmost, while other groups of people are sitting back and condemning, he said.

5 Middletown Men Tied to Burglary Ring

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—One of five Middletown area men, charged in what police term a widespread burglary ring, was being brought here from Cincinnati today for arraignment on burglary charges.

Detectives J. W. Stein and A. R. Hanner said James E. Frazier, 28, arrested in Cincinnati last week and charged with house-breaking there, is accused in a burglary operation that netted at least $20,000 in merchandise over the past several months.

A long string of thefts have occurred in this area and more than 100 in Hamilton County and at Manchester, Ky., in recent weeks, the detectives said.

Two other suspects, Ralph Stephens, 27, and Emanuel Sneling, 28, pleaded innocent to burglary charges when they were arraigned here Monday. Bond was set at $50,000 each.

Cincinnati police arrested the fourth and fifth persons and charged them with receiving stolen goods. They are Eldon Powell, 21, and Jimmy Sizemore, about 30.

Youth Hurt After Fleeing Holdup Scene

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Charges were expected to be filed today against a young Columbus man wounded by police after he fled the scene of a holdup with three hostages.

Pat Apollonio, 20, was placed in the city jail Monday night after being treated at Mount Carmel Hospital for arm wounds. Also treated at the hospital was Mrs. Laura Belle Marcum, 30, of Columbus, who suffered cuts from bullet-shattered glass.

The holdup man ordered the manager of the West Side finance company where the robbery occurred Monday to answer a ringing telephone. This led to the capture, officer said.

Manager John E. Hawkins said he was able to throw a coded message to advise the other party that the holdup was in progress. Police arrived while the robber was at the scene.

The robber ordered Hawkins and two employees into Hawkins' car when he spotted police, telling Hawkins to drive. The manager drove into a ditch as police gave pursuit.

Jumping from the car, the robber approached the car of Mrs. Marcum. Police converged on the scene and opened fire.

In the car with Mrs. Marcum were her husband, Alex, and their 7-month-old daughter. Marcum and the child escaped injury.

The amount taken in the holdup was estimated at $300-400.

Lima Mother Seeks Title of Mrs. America

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—An attractive, 38-year-old mother of four children will represent Ohio in the annual Mrs. America pageant here.

Mrs. Helen Schuh of Lima, Ohio, was among 50 state winners announced Monday by the Mrs. America Homemaking Council. The council is made up of home economists and representatives of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

She is a teacher at the Nancy Taylor Charm and Finishing School and at Northwestern School of Commerce in Lima. Her husband, F. Niles, is an engineer for the Westinghouse Electric Corp. plant there.

The couple's four children are Frazier, 14, Debbie, 12, Robin, 10, and Lynn, 8.

Two Lima women were among Ohio's three finalists. The other was Mrs. James M. Coalahan. Mrs. David Mitchell of Winterville (Jefferson County) was the state's third finalist.

Selections were made on the basis of information supplied on contest forms, including recipes, homemaking quizzes and essays. Mrs. Schuh will receive an expense-paid trip and a week's lodging for the pageant April 22-29.

Fairfield Gets OK To Quit Water Deal

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Judge Fred Cramer has granted the city of Fairfield permission to pull out of a proposal to establish a water conservancy district.

The judge said Monday permission was given on a legal technicality—that the case had not been submitted completely when Fairfield made its request March 19.

"The fact that Fairfield changed its mind does not impress the court," he said.

Fairfield joined Butler County and Hamilton officials in filing the petition last July.

The petition had been filed after Cincinnati city officials reported purchase of a farm near Ross where plans were to develop a water supply plant using wells.

Recluse, 75, Found Among Cash Fortune

NEW YORK (AP)—Police found Nellie Corrigan, 75, wandering about her cluttered Bronx apartment in ragged, soiled clothing. She was gaunt and apparently undernourished, and she kept asking for "my little 23-year-old sister, Mary."

The body of her sister, Mary, about 72, had been found by Nellie in a hallway outside the three-room apartment Saturday night.

When police and a priest went to the apartment Sunday to check on funeral arrangements, they saw Nellie carrying a canvas bag and several pocketbooks. Police examined them and discovered $50,000 in cash.

They searched the apartment and came up with 11 bankbooks showing deposits in excess of $100,000.

Nellie was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where psychiatrists hoped to learn the source of the fortune and other elements of the sisters' lives.

Final Date Set For Wool Program

The 1962 wool payment program marketing year ended Mar. 31, 1963, according to Galen D. Mowery of the Pickaway ASC Committee.

If growers sold shorn wool or unshorn lambs between April 1, 1962, and Mar. 31, 1963, and have not made an application for incentive payments, they may bring sales slips to the ASCS county office at 206 S. Court St. Applications should be filed by April 30, 1963.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The President is like a union and Congress like a management negotiating a new contract every year when it's time to put through another foreign aid program. It's that time now.

The President invariably asks more than he must realistically expect to get. Congress invariably and indignantly rejects the opening request as out of the question.

Then the two sides get down to the real bargaining for something they both can live with. The public, like football spectators watching the end runs, hears the speeches but doesn't see the infighting in the line.

This is where both sides put on the pressure and do the arm-twisting. If a president winds up with about $1 billion less than he asked he probably feels he came out all right.

It's been that way in the past. It's probably that way now with President Kennedy who arranged to send his special message on foreign aid to Congress today.

He already told Congress in his budget earlier this year he wanted $4.9 billion for foreign aid. That's what he asked last year and Congress gave him $3.9 billion. He'd probably settle for that this year gladly.

He probably won't get more. The message itself is usually the frosting on the cake. It has some noble and urgent passages about the needs of mankind and the American obligation to help the backward and the impoverished. But it also notes the aid, particularly the military part of it, is a sensible investment in national security. All this is routine, like a union starting negotiations by laying down its contract demands in general terms.

The President has one advantage starting out, like a union which knows management won't argue about its right to a contract but only the terms of it.

Congress won't argue about the need to continue foreign aid. It's generally accepted the United States will have to provide foreign aid for years. The only argument is over how much it will cost and the details.

This is where the frosting melts and both sides dig into the cake to explore what's in it, who gets what and how much, what country needs less, what country needs more, and what one can finally do without any.

In this operation the White House and the State Department, which have to handle foreign policy are all for delicacy in opening the cake. Compared with their ap-

City Post Office To Implement New Negotiations Program

The Circleville post office has taken official action to implement the Post Office Department's new program for negotiation and consultation on grievances, working conditions, personnel practices and other related matters, Postmaster Charles H. Walters reported today.

The move — developed by the Postal Service under President Kennedy's historic Executive Order 10988 of Jan. 17, 1962 — officially recognizes federal employee organizations for the first time. Recognition is based on results of the largest nation-wide labor management election, held June 15 - July 1, 1962, in which 451,000 postal employees participated. Official results were issued to each post office by the Post Office Department in Washington.

Here are the results at the local post office: The clerks are represented by the National Union, carriers by the National Association of Letter Carriers, and rural carriers by the National Rural Letter Carriers' Association.

Exclusive recognition was acquired by employee organizations having a clear majority of the vote in a particular craft unit under prescribed voting procedures. The postmaster will negotiate with these organizations, holding regular meetings and working out written agreements on matters affecting all employees in the craft unit represented regardless of employees' membership status.

National agreements give local employee organizations the right to deal with the postmaster on local working conditions, personnel practices and in resolving interpretations under the local agreements.

At the same time, the National agreements reiterate Executive Order 10988's ban against strikes, discrimination. They set forth management's prerogatives which are not subject to negotiation, such as the budget, assignment of personnel, work technology or, any matter determined by Congress, such as pay rates.

Postal management, under the Executive Order, also retains the right to direct employees, to hire, promote, transfer, suspend or discipline employees in accord with Civil Service regulations.

A report of the President's task force on employee-management relations in the Federal Service, submitted to the President on Nov. 30, 1961, before the issuance of Executive Order 10988, said: "representatives of the employee organizations made it clear they are aware of these limitations and are quite content to negotiate within them."

Postmaster General J. Edward Day was a member of this task force.

The employees of the Circleville post office, now receiving official recognition at the local level for their employee organizations, join with workers in more than 30,000 post offices throughout the nation in acquiring official recognition under the President's labor-management order for federal employees.

Ten employee organizations representing seven postal craft units — letter carriers, clerks, rural carriers, maintenance — custodial, motor vehicle, mail handlers, special delivery messengers — have been recognized. The number of organizations represented at each post office varies, according to the election results.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, April 2, the 92nd day of 1963. There are 273 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1917, President Woodrow Wilson asked Congress to declare war against Germany. Congress did not formally declare war until April 6.

On this day: In 1792, the U.S. mint was established in Philadelphia.

In 1879, the first telephone exchange in Rhode Island was established at Providence.

In 1902, the first motion picture theater in the United States was opened in Los Angeles.

In 1942, Juan Antonio Rios was inaugurated as president of Chile. In 1948, Congress voted a tax cut of nearly $5 billion dollars over President Harry S. Truman's veto.

Today's birthdays: British actor Sir Alec Guinness is 48. Canadian leader Lionel Chevrier is 60.

Thought for today: No man can climb out beyond the limitations of his own character — Viscount Morley.

Recluse, 75, Found Among Cash Fortune

NEW YORK (AP)—Police found Nellie Corrigan, 75, wandering about her cluttered Bronx apartment in ragged, soiled clothing. She was gaunt and apparently undernourished, and she kept asking for "my little 23-year-old sister, Mary."

The body of her sister, Mary, about 72, had been found by Nellie in a hallway outside the three-room apartment Saturday night.

When police and a priest went to the apartment Sunday to check on funeral arrangements, they saw Nellie carrying a canvas bag and several pocketbooks. Police examined them and discovered $50,000 in cash.

They searched the apartment and came up with 11 bankbooks showing deposits in excess of $100,000.

Nellie was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where psychiatrists hoped to learn the source of the fortune and other elements of the sisters' lives.

Final Date Set For Wool Program

The 1962 wool payment program marketing year ended Mar. 31, 1963, according to Galen D. Mowery, of the Pickaway ASC Committee.

If growers sold shorn wool or unshorn lambs between April 1, 1962, and Mar. 31, 1963, and have not made an application for incentive payments, they may bring sales slips to the ASCS county office at 206 S. Court St. Applications should be filed by April 30, 1963.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The President is like a union and Congress like a management negotiating a new contract every year when it's time to put through another foreign aid program. It's that time now.

The President invariably asks more than he must realistically expect to get. Congress invariably and indignantly rejects the opening request as out of the question.

Then the two sides get down to the real bargaining for something they both can live with. The public, like football spectators watching the end runs, hears the speeches but doesn't see the infighting in the line.

This is where both sides put on the pressure and do the arm-twisting. If a president winds up with about $1 billion less than he asked he probably feels he came out all right.

It's been that way in the past. It's probably that way now with President Kennedy who arranged to send his special message on foreign aid to Congress today.

He already told Congress in his budget earlier this year he wanted $4.9 billion for foreign aid. That's what he asked last year and Congress gave him $3.9 billion. He'd probably settle for that this year.

He probably won't get more. The message itself is usually the frosting on the cake. It has some noble and urgent passages about the needs of mankind and the American obligation to help the backward and the impoverished. But it also notes the aid, particularly the military part of it, is a sensible investment in national security. All this is routine, like a union starting negotiations by laying down its contract demands in general terms.

The President has one advantage starting out, like a union which knows management won't argue about its right to a contract but only the terms of it.

Congress won't argue about the need to continue foreign aid. It's generally accepted the United States will have to provide foreign aid for years. The only argument is over how much it will cost and the details.

This is where the frosting melts and both sides dig into the cake to explore what's in it, who gets what and how much, what country needs less, what country needs more, and what one can finally do without any.

In this operation the White House and the State Department, which have to handle foreign policy are all for delicacy in opening the cake. Compared with their ap-

Fairfield Gets OK To Quit Water Deal

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Judge Fred Cramer has granted the city of Fairfield permission to pull out of a proposal to establish a water conservancy district.

The judge said Monday permission was given on a legal technicality—that the case had not been submitted completely when Fairfield made its request March 19.

"The fact that Fairfield changed its mind does not impress the court," he said.

Fairfield officials Butler County and Hamilton joined in filing the petition last July.

The petition had been filed after Cincinnati city officials reported purchase of a farm near Ross where plans were to develop a water supply plant using wells.

Now It's Crops without Plowing

By John Chamberlain

President Kennedy recently mentioned the "agricultural revolution" as one of the prime causes of the worsening unemployment situation. He is, of course, right. But the "crop management" that Secretary of Agriculture Freeman advocates only serves to aggravate a problem of farm labor displacement that has been with us ever since McCormick invented the reaper.

The effort to "manage" crops by controlling the planting acreage or by rewarding the farmer by guaranteeing him a fixed sum of money for a given number of bushels, some of which remain in government storage bins, may temporarily solve the problem of the agricultural price level. But the farmer, still trying to make his individual business as profitable as he may, responds to the planting limitations by trying to harvest his per acre yield with the least expenditure of cash and labor or hours. The pressure from Washington to limit the amount of corn or wheat coming to market brings an almost fiendish cleverness into play in this matter of getting rid of expensive farmhands and in obtaining bigger yields from reduced acreage.

I keep up with these things at the cost of scaring myself half to death every month when my copy of the "Farm Journal" arrives. This month there are two spine-tinglers in the "Journal" that President Kennedy, if he wishes to sleep well, had better not take to bed with him. One article tells the farmer how to pick the right chemical to use on his particular soil as a "pre-emergence weeder." The second article, one on "Corn Without Plowing," explains how a single dose of week-killing chemicals applied to a corn field in the spring does away with the need to plow and to harrow and to cultivate. You simply throw the "pre-emergence weeder" on plain, ordinary sod, then you plant the corn, and then, come autumn, you harvest a 100-bushel per acre yield. It's all done in three motions, and there's no work in the hot months!

A Department of Agriculture scientist, Warren C. Shaw, explains the resulting displacement of farm manpower blithely. "All we do," he says, "is substitute chemical energy for mechanical energy." According to Ohio Experiment Station scientists, the labor-displacing virtues of "pre-emergence weeders" have already been proved in rather extensive practice.

"We've averaged 107 bushels where we planted in killed but undisturbed sod on silt loam soil—the same as corn made on sod where we plowed and disked," says Ohio experimenter G. B. Triplett, Jr., "and no-tillage corn planted in old cornstalks on silt loam soil yielded 100 bushels—three bushels more than where we plowed under the old stalks."

Thus the back-breaking tyranny of hacking at clods disappears from the American farm. But also exit the farm laborer!

The "pre-emergence weeder," chemicals go by such designations as 2, 4-D, which strangles broad-leaf weeds at birth, and atrazine, which kills sod and grassy weeds. Other weed killers are dalapon and linuron. No doubt the partisans of

"organic" farming will soon be telling us that 2, 4-D and atrazine and dalapon are murderous to earthworms, destructive of a proper balance of corn vitamins, and ruinous to the structure of humus. But this, even if true, will not keep the average farmer from using them. Chemicals, on the farm, are here to stay.

The use of "pre-emergence weeders" is merely one manifestation of a phenomenon that must, eventually, force the government to choose between totalitarian controls for agriculture and a phased return to the free market. Partial "crop management" pushes the cleverer and the richer farmer into devising all sorts of ways of getting more or less expenditure of effort from a "controlled" acreage. Meanwhile the gap between the poor farmer and the rich and resourceful farmer widens. The poor farmer sells out to the rich farmer who can afford chemicals. And the number of ex-farmers seeking employment in the city mounts.

The best thing for the long pull in agriculture would be to have government accept the inevitable, as happened in the coal industry when the Guffey control act was outlawed. Accepting the free market price, the coal mine owners scrambled to re-establish their profit margins by automating to the hilt. This put miners out of work. But the problem of dealing with unemployment that results from automation can be handled successfully in only one way: by creating new industries and services to soak up the displaced men.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP)—Business prospects continue to improve. The latest gains are in industrial production, especially in the making of durable goods. And this is cheering because much of the slackness that was disturbing during the winter was in this sector.

Yet for all its perkier appearance, the economy is showing no signs of heading for a boom. And a boom is what many labor and business leaders say would be needed now to cure unemployment.

ment and the profit margin squeeze.

But the brighter prospects for the immediate future are impressive.

Orders for steel are pouring in. The mills expect April output to be largest in the last 12 months. They know that much of the latest ordering spurt is sparked by hedging against the outside chance of a strike late in the summer, should the labor contract be reopened and negotiations stale-mated. But steelmen insist much of the orders on their books now are from customers who expect to use the steel soon after delivery because they are optimistic about their own business outlook.

Backing for this view comes the latest figures by the Department of Commerce. They show new orders received by all manufacturers rose 2 per cent in February to a record high. Economists regard these orders as a leading indicator—that is, pointing the direction the economy in general may be taking in the months just ahead.

The rise in durable goods orders was 3 per cent. The biggest increase was a 7 per cent rise in iron and steel orders, with auto and aerospace industries reporting good gains.

Manufacturers sales also rose in February to a record. But the rise in new orders was even faster. So for the second straight month the backlog of unfilled orders swelled. This, too, spells good times for at least the nearby weeks and months.

Much of the optimism this spring is based on the still climbing totals of personal income and retail sales. The only disappointment is that they aren't rising faster.

Business confidence also is bolstered by official reports that the nation's corporations are planning to spend more this year than last for new plants, and more especially for new equipment.

That puts all three sectors of spending on the upgrade: business, consumer and, of course, government. Federal spending is due to increase in the months ahead, and still bigger boosts are looked for in outlays by state and local governments.

It still doesn't add up to a big enough increase in the general economy to erase the problems.

"Take a letter to your hairdresser."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

"Doctor, I think I have Mono." Names of diseases are often abbreviated by patients. Not only does this serve to improve the rapport with their doctor, but the very familiarity seems to allay their anxiety.

"Mono" is short for infectious mononucleosis, which is a disease of rather recent vintage that was quickly translated into popular jargon.

Mononucleosis occurs in relatively young people. Strangely, it is seen more frequently among medical students, nurses and interns in hospitals. This has never been adequately explained.

Mononucleosis was first described in 1920. Since then, more and more cases have been observed in sporadic areas around the country. Small epidemic outbreaks of mononucleosis were often called attacks of "glandular fever."

In the early stages of infectious mononucleosis, the symptoms closely resemble those of the common cold, the flu or the gripe. Noticeable is a slight fever, sore throat, swollen glands in the neck and a sense of "feeling awful."

As the illness progresses the glands become more swollen. Even at this time there are no distinct unique, recognizable characteristics of the disease. Sometimes the lower half of the body is covered with a pale rash.

It must be noted how easy it is to be confused when this complicated disease resembles so many other common ailments.

The disease runs a self-limiting course, usually without any complications. Recovery takes about six weeks.

The unusual duration of this illness is really due to the severe weakness and prostration that go with it. Most patients complain, "I just can't wait to get back to bed after being up for half an hour." Nature has its own ways of imposing the much needed rest which is so valuable in the convalescent period.

Mononucleosis, when suspected, can be determined by a thorough examination of the blood. A very special test with the euphonious name of "heterophile agglutination" confirms the diagnosis.

Sometimes the test is elusive and must be repeated. Blood studies taken long after the patient is almost completely well may still show some increase of the heterophile level.

The treatment for infectious mononucleosis, or "mono", is rest and more rest. Supportive treatment is given for any special symptoms that may arise.

Although the actual disease lasts from four to six weeks, the sense of weakness may discouragingly linger for months. Recurrences are comparatively rare.

Antibiotics may or may not be used in mononucleosis, depending on the judgment of the doctor. If he does decide to use them, it is not for the treatment of the disease itself.

Mononucleosis, like so many other diseases, is devastating, so the body resistance is low. Antibiotics, therefore, are sometimes used to prevent additional infections from invading the already tired body.

Mononucleosis is not a serious or alarming disease. It just needs lots of pampering and your physician's guidance.

Cardinal Cushing Plans Talks to Protestants

BOSTON (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, embarks next week on an unprecedented program of speaking before Protestant congregations.

The cardinal said Sunday he had accepted all invitations extended to him by Protestant ministers. The talks will be in church halls and the cardinal will not be participating in any religious ceremonies.

Catholic priests for the last six years have been allowed to speak before Protestant congregations, but the cardinal has never accepted such invitations.

Duck Laundry Is Busy in Minnesota

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Residents along the Minnesota and Mississippi rivers are operating duck laundries these days in an effort to rescue thousands of birds dying of oil pollution.

The rivers are coated with fuel oil from a pipeline that burst at Savage, Minn., and a soybean oil tank that cracked last winter at Mankato, Minn.

The oil coats the birds' feathers and fills their nostrils. Beaver and muskrat also have succumbed.

State and federal officials have demanded action by both firms to choke off the oil which ran into the rivers when the ice melted last week.

Several families have picked up dozens of ducks and washed them in detergent in their own bathtubs. However, this removes the ducks' natural feather oils so they must be taken to game farms to recuperate, lest they sink in the water and drown when released.

State and federal wardens and game biologists are joining in the rescue effort. University of Minnesota natural history students helped out Sunday.

A GROUP OF theater buffs were discussing the drama critics the other night, and trying to select the most devastating lines ever penned by these dedicated assassins.

Nominations: 1. Walter Kerr's, "This is the sort of play that gives failures a bad name." 2. George S. Kaufman's, "I saw last night's opening under unfortunate circumstances. The curtain was up." 3. George Jean Nathan's, "I always said I'd like John Barrymore's acting till the cows came home. Well, ladies and gentlemen, last night the cows came home." 4. Dorothy Parker's, "Obviously, here was a playwright for the ages—the ages of four to six." 5. Percy Hammond's, "Mr. So-and-So played the King last night as though he was afraid someone else might play the ace."

Harry Golden tells about Sadie's 12-year-old son who snagged a job during his summer vacation that paid $20 a week. "And mama," he promised, "it all goes straight to you." Now It's Crops without Plowing

President Kennedy recently mentioned the "agricultural revolution" as one of the prime causes of the worsening unemployment situation. He is, of course, right. But the "crop management" that Secretary of Agriculture Freeman advocates only serves to aggravate a problem of farm labor displacement that has been with us ever since McCormick invented the reaper.

The effort to "manage" crops by controlling the planting acreage or by rewarding the farmer by guaranteeing him a fixed sum of money for a given number of bushels, some of which remain in government storage bins, may temporarily solve the problem of the agricultural price level. But the farmer, still trying to make his individual business as profitable as he may, responds to the planting limitations by trying to harvest his per acre yield with the least expenditure of cash and labor hours. The pressure from Washington to limit the amount of corn or wheat coming to market brings an almost fiendish cleverness into play in this matter of getting rid of expensive farmhands and in obtaining bigger yields from reduced acreage.

I keep up with these things at the cost of scaring myself half to death every month when my copy of the "Farm Journal" arrives. This month there are two spine-tinglers in the "Journal" that President Kennedy, if he wishes to sleep well, had better not take to bed with him. One article tells the farmer how to pick the right chemical to use on his particular soil as a "pre-emergence weeder." The second article, one on "Corn Without Plowing," explains how a single dose of week-killing chemicals applied to a corn field in the spring does away with the need to plow and to harrow and to cultivate. You simply throw the "pre-emergence weeder" on plain, ordinary sod, then you plant the corn, and then, come autumn, you harvest a 100-bushel per acre yield. It's all done in three motions, and there's no work in the hot months!

A Department of Agriculture scientist, Warren C. Shaw, explains the resulting displacement of farm manpower blithely. "All we do," he says, "is substitute chemical energy for mechanical energy." According to Ohio Experiment Station scientists, the labor-displacing virtues of "pre-emergence weeders" have already been proved in rather extensive practice.

"We've averaged 107 bushels where we planted in killed but undisturbed soil on silt loam soil—the same as corn made on sod where we plowed and disked," says Ohio experimenter G. B. Triplett, Jr., "and no-tillage corn planted in old cornstalks on silt loam soil yielded 100 bushels—three bushels more than where we plowed under the old stalks."

Thus the back-breaking tyranny of hacking at clods disappears from the American farmer. But also exit the farm laborer!

The "pre-emergence weeder," chemicals go by such designations as 2, 4-D, which strangles broad-leaf weeds at birth, and atrazine, which kills sod and grassy weeds. Other weed killers are dalapon and linuron. No doubt the partisans of

By John Chamberlain

"organic" farming will soon be telling us that 2, 4-D and atrazine and dalapon are murderous to earthworms, destructive of a proper balance of corn vitamins, and ruinous to the structure of humus. But this, even if true, will not keep the average farmer from using them. Chemicals, on the farm, are here to stay.

The use of "pre-emergence weeders" is merely one manifestation of a phenomenon that must, eventually, force the government to choose between totalitarian controls for agriculture and a phased return to the free market.

Partial "crop management" pushes the cleverer and the richer farmer into devising all sorts of ways of getting more or less expenditure of effort from a "controlled" acreage. Meanwhile the gap between the poor farmer and the rich and resourceful farmer widens. The poor farmer sells out to the rich farmer who can afford chemicals. And the number of ex-farmers seeking employment in the city mounts.

The best thing for the long pull in agriculture would be to have government accept the inevitable, as happened in the coal industry when the Guffey control act was outlawed. Accepting the free market price, the coal mine owners scrambled to re-establish their profit margins by automating to the hilt. This put miners out of work.

But the problem of dealing with unemployment that results from automation can be handled successfully in only one way: by creating new industries and services to soak up the displaced men.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP)—Business prospects continue to improve. The latest gains are in industrial production, especially in the making of durable goods. And this is cheering because much of the slackness that was disturbing during the winter was in this sector.

Yet for all its perkier appearance, the economy is showing no signs of heading for a boom. And a boom is what many labor and business leaders say would be needed now to cure unemployment.

ment and the profit margin squeeze.

But the brighter prospects for the immediate future are impressive.

Orders for steel are pouring in. The mills expect April output to be largest in the last 12 months. They know that much of the latest ordering spurt is sparked by hedging against the outside chance of a strike late in the summer, should the labor contract be reopened and negotiations stalemated. But steelmen insist much of the orders on their books now are from customers who expect to use the steel soon after delivery because they are optimistic about their own business outlook.

Backing for this view comes the latest figures by the Department of Commerce.
They show new orders received by all manufacturers rose 2 percent in February to a record high. Economists regard these orders as a leading indicator—that is, pointing the direction the economy in general may be taking in the months just ahead.

The rise in durable goods orders was 3 per cent. The biggest increase was a 7 per cent rise in iron and steel orders, with auto and aerospace industries reporting good gains.

Manufacturers sales also rose in

By Sam Dawson

February to a record. But the rise in new orders was even faster. So for the second straight month the backlog of unfilled orders swelled. This, too, spells good times for at least the nearby weeks and months.

Much of the optimism this spring is based on the still climbing totals of personal income and retail sales. The only disappointment is that they aren't rising faster.

Business confidence also is bolstered by official reports that the nation's corporations are planning to spend more this year than last for new plants, and more especially for new equipment.

That puts all three sectors of spending on the upgrade: business, consumer and, of course, government. Federal spending is due to increase in the months ahead, and still bigger boosts are looked for in outlays by state and local governments.

It still doesn't add up to a big enough increase in the general economy to erase the problems.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

"Doctor, I think I have Mono." Names of diseases are often abbreviated by patients. Not only does this serve to improve the rapport with their doctor, but the very familiarity seems to allay their anxiety.

"Mono" is short for infectious mononucleosis, which is a disease of rather recent vintage that was quickly translated into popular jargon.

Mononucleosis occurs in relatively young people. Strangely, it is seen more frequently among medical students, nurses and interns in hospitals. This has never been adequately explained.

Mononucleosis is first described in 1920. Since then, more and more cases have been observed in sporadic areas around the country. Small epidemic outbreaks of mononucleosis were often called attacks of "glandular fever."

In the early stages of infectious mononucleosis, the symptoms closely resemble those of the common cold, the flu or the gripe. Noticeable is a slight fever, sore throat, swollen glands in the neck and a sense of "feeling awful."

As the illness progresses the glands become more swollen. Even at this time there are no distinct unique, recognizable characteristics of the disease. Sometimes the lower half of the body is covered with a pale rash.

It must be noted how easy it is to be confused when this complicated disease resembles so many other common ailments.

The disease runs a self-limiting course, usually without any complications. Recovery takes about six weeks.

The unusual duration of this illness is really due to the severe weakness and prostration that go with it. Most patients complain, "I just can't wait to get back to bed after being up for half an hour." Nature has its own ways of imposing the much needed rest which is so valuable in the convalescent period.

Mononucleosis, when suspected, can be determined by a thorough examination of the blood. A very special test with the euphonious name of "heterophile agglutination" confirms the diagnosis.

Sometimes the test is elusive and must be repeated. Blood studies taken long after the patient is almost completely well may still show some increase of the heterophile level.

The treatment for infectious mononucleosis, or "mono," is rest and more rest. Supportive treatment is given for any special symptoms that may arise.

Although the actual disease lasts from four to six weeks, the sense of weakness may discouragingly linger for months. Recurrences are comparatively rare.

Antibiotics may or may not be used in mononucleosis, depending on the judgment of the doctor. If he does decide to use them, it is not for the treatment of the disease itself.

Mononucleosis, like so many other diseases, is devastating, so the body resistance is low. Antibiotics, therefore, are sometimes used to prevent additional infections from invading the already tired body.

Mononucleosis is not a serious or alarming disease. It just needs lots of pampering and your physician's guidance.

Conservancy District Bill Signed by Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes signed into law enactments permitting conservancy districts to issue revenue bonds for construction and to obtain advance expense money from the Ohio Water Commission.

The General Assembly passed the legislation with emergency clauses, making the two new laws effective upon signing by the governor.

The governor also signed three other minor measures into law effective in 90 days.

Cardinal Cushing Plans Talks to Protestants

BOSTON (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, embarks next week on an unprecedented program of speaking before Protestant congregations.

The cardinal said Sunday he had accepted all invitations extended to him by Protestant ministers. The talks will be in church halls and the cardinal will not be participating in any religious ceremonies.

Catholic priests for the last six years have been allowed to speak before Protestant congregations, but the cardinal has never accepted such invitations.

Duck Laundry Is Busy in Minnesota

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Residents along the Minnesota and Mississippi rivers are operating duck laundries these days in an effort to rescue thousands of birds dying of oil pollution.

The rivers are coated with fuel oil from a pipeline that burst at Savage, Minn., and a soybean oil tank that cracked last winter at Mankato, Minn.

The oil coats the birds' feathers and fills their nostrils. Beaver and muskrat also have succumbed.

State and federal officials have demanded action by both firms to choke off the oil which ran into the rivers when the ice melted last week.

Several families have picked up dozens of ducks and washed them in detergent in their own bathtubs. However, this removes the ducks' natural feather oils so they must be taken to game farms to recuperate, lest they sink in the water and drown when released.

State and federal wardens and game biologists are joining in the rescue effort. University of Minnesota natural history students helped out Sunday.

Big Welfare Reform Bill To Be Filed

The Senate unanimously passed and sent to the House a bill to require calling at least 30 candidates before a 15-member county grand jury is selected. The author is Sen. Oakley Collins, R - Lawrence.

Also in the Senate, Sen. Ross Pepple, R-Allen, chairman of the Education Committee, had two major education proposals.

His first asks the Ohio Supreme Court to reduce from four to two the number of college academic years required of a person seeking admission to a law school.

His second would require two years of college training before a person could be admitted to schools for embalmers and morticians.

Perhaps the most interesting bill introduced Monday was one by Rep. Edward C. Schmacher, R-Hamilton. It would provide a true "share-the-wealth" state program of school financing.

Schmacher's plan envisions a huge pool of school money—from real estate taxes collected statewide—distributed equally across the state. The State Board of Education would administer the distribution of all school money—local, state or federal.

More than 30 years ago, the state—realizing that real estate no longer could bear the entire burden of public education—embarked on the new idea that the state should share with local school boards the cost of operating the public schools.

Now at the outset, but a few years later, the school subsidy got the name of "the school foundation program." The idea was that the state should lay a foundation under the guaranteed education of each child—with local school boards making up the rest of the cost. The original plan was to guarantee each child, regardless of where he lived, a minimum-adequate education through the public schools.

Gradually, lawmakers seem to have lost sign of that aim. Wealthy school districts have insisted on increasingly larger share of available school subsidy money. Originally, the subsidy program covered an average of 45 per cent of the costs of most school districts; now the figure is down to about 30 per cent.

The Schmacher bill is an attempt to return to the principle of equal educational opportunity for all.

It would require all school districts to levy at least 18 mills—$18 for each $1,000 of property valuation—each year for school purposes and turn the money over to the State Board of Education for distribution equally across the state on a population basis.

The only catch: Some school districts seem willing to tax themselves for school purposes as high as 28 or 30 mills—$28 to $30 for each $1,000 of real estate value—while others balk at $10.

But, presumably, it would be all right for the school districts seeking better-than-average education for their children to keep the local assessments above 18 per cent for their local educational efforts.

Ex-Miami Dean Said Embezzler

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — James H. Lochary, 30, former assistant dean of students at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, has been charged with embezzling $2,200 in rigged scholarships at Indiana University.

Lochary became director of scholarships and financial aids after coming to Indiana from Miami in 1960.

Eight counts of embezzlement were filed Monday in Monroe County Circuit Court after a sophomore student's suspicions led to a state audit. Lochary quit last month while the audit was being made.

Contacted at his home Monday, Lochary said: "I know nothing about this, and I have nothing to say."

Solons Agree LBJ Needs No 24-Hour Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson doesn't want Secret Service men shadowing him 24 hours a day he shouldn't have to have them, the House Appropriations Committee decided today.

The vice president should have as much protection as he wants whenever he wants it, the committee said in a report on an appropriation bill financing the Secret Service, but it shouldn't be forced on him.

A stickler for sticking to the letter of the law, the Secret Service asked the committee for about 328,000 to finance the employment of 35 more agents and a clerk to handle the vice-presidential watchdog detail. A law enacted late last year authorized the service to provide full-time protection for Johnson. It construed that as a mandate.

Until last October, the vice president was given protection whenever he asked for it, which wasn't very often. Usually, two agents were assigned when he requested them. He didn't want around-the-clock surveillance.

Hearing Program Scheduled in City Grade Schools

The annual hearing conservation program will be conducted in city schools Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, it was announced today by Robert Wellington, speech therapist.

Students in grades one, three and five will be checked.

The program is conducted annually, according to Wellington, giving each student three check-ups before entering junior high school.

He pointed out the program is beneficial in detecting hearing defects.

The tests will be administered by Wellington and members of the various city parent-teacher groups.

Childhood diseases frequently cause or aggravate defects. Some of these illnesses can be helped with proper medical attention, Wellington pointed out.

Carroll Boy Killed In Highway Collision

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—A 2-year-old boy was killed and his mother and two brothers were injured late Monday night when the car they were in was struck from behind by another, the Highway Patrol reported.

Killed was Jimmy Cremeans of Rt. 1, Carroll.

Injured were his mother, Jean, 23, and two brothers, Ricky, 3, and Terry, 1.

Driving the Cremeans car was the father, Willard A. Cremeans, 26, who was not injured.

The patrol said a car driven by Ray Albert Griffith, 20, of Lancaster struck the rear of the Cremeans car on U.S. 33 four miles north of here. Griffith was not injured.

Girl of 5 Looks in Vain For Parents

BOSTON (AP)—The lame girl from Ecuador looks wistfully from a strange window into a strange street. She fingers her new collection of bright, copper pennies. Then she hears someone entering and turns quickly.

The names "madre, padre" are on her lips. And then she sees it is one of her uncles. Nobody ever answers directly when she asks for her mother and father. Now she asks less and less for the parents who brought her to a Boston hospital last week for an operation—and died together in a hotel fire.

How do you tell a girl of five? That is the question that haunts the minds of Luis del Campos and Patricia Jijon, uncles of Maria Elena Jijon. They flew to Boston Sunday and were still trying today to set up arrangements for sending home the bodies of Fabian Jijon, 39, and his wife, Lola, 34, who perished with two other persons Friday in a 4 a.m. fire in the Sherry Biltmore Hotel.

Plans for the operation on Maria Elena to correct a birth defect in her hip—so that she might walk like other children—now are postponed indefinitely. She will be taken back to Quito where funeral services will be held.

Author Dorothy Parker Finds College Teaching Is Difficult

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Famed author Dorothy Parker has cast herself in a new role: teacher. It's not likely to last.

"I don't think I'll try it again," she says. "It is hard work. The only real reward is the one or two or three students you find who are alive and responsive and worth all the trouble."

Miss Parker has been teaching courses in the American and English novel at Los Angeles State College. "I am ashamed to say I had never heard of the college before I went there," she said. "I found it to be a thriving institution of 18,000 students—and 150 parking places."

She has enjoyed certain aspects of the academic life, including association with other teachers, but the location of the college has proved a problem. It is in East Los Angeles, a grueling ride from her Beverly Hills home.

"The freeway terrifies me," she admitted. "I don't drive, which is a good thing for society, because I am near-sighted and given to quick and flighty decisions."

How does she find the new college generation?

"More mature than I expected," she remarked. "More interested in education than my generation was. They seem to be more puritanical, if you can imagine that, and less adventuresome. There is not much dissent. I have counted only three beards out of a student body of 18,000."

She has been struck by the lack of humor in the young crowd. "I can't understand it," she said. "They can't blame it all on The Bomb. They can't worry about it all the time. Why don't they laugh?"

The decline of humor concerns

her—"The deaths of Benchley and Thurber were terrible blows." She can find little that is funny in today's writing and is unable to contribute any herself. She hasn't tried verse for many years—"I think that's something to write when you're young."

The decline of writing generally appalls her. She has kept up with current books with her reviewing post for Esquire magazine which she is resuming after a lapse.

"There is so little worth publishing," she commented, "yet they continue putting out a vast amount of books. And at such terrible prices—$6, $8, $12, $14. The cost of books is getting out of hand. The only hope I see is in the paperbacks, which are doing fine things at reasonable prices." Miss Parker and her writer husband, Alan Parker, live in a bungalow near the Sunset Strip with their Sealyham and mother-daughter poodles. After a decade in New York, they came back to Hollywood a year ago.

Itinerant Farmer Held for Slaying

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — A young itinerant farm worker who police say admitted discarding a gun and a murdered man's wallet near Athens, Ohio, has been charged with killing Forrest Walker Hubbard, 42, an Arlington, Va., salesman.

Arrested in Hannibal, Mo., and facing return to Virginia this week on the murder charge is Gary L. Humes, 21.

Hubbard's body, with bullet wounds in the head and back, was found Saturday in woods near here. Hubbard's auto was found partly submerged in the Salt River near Louisiana, Mo.

State police say the charge is that Humes killed Hubbard when he allegedly robbed the victim, who had picked up the hitchhiking Humes at Fairfax, Va.

Ex-Miami Dean Said Embezzler

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — James H. Lochary, 30, former assistant dean of students at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, has been charged with embezzling $2,200 in rigged scholarships at Indiana University.

Lochary became director of scholarships and financial aids after coming to Indiana from Miami in 1960.

Eight counts of embezzlement were filed Monday in Monroe County Circuit Court after a sophomore student's suspicions led to a state audit. Lochary quit last month while the audit was being made.

Contacted at his home Monday, Lochary said: "I know nothing about this, and I have nothing to say."

Solons Agree LBJ Needs No 24-Hour Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson doesn't want Secret Service men shadowing him 24 hours a day he shouldn't have to have them, the House Appropriations Committee decided today.

The vice president should have as much protection as he wants whenever he wants it, the committee said in a report on an appropriation bill financing the Secret Service, but it shouldn't be forced on him.

A stickler for sticking to the letter of the law, the Secret Service asked the committee for about 328,000 to finance the employment of 35 more agents and a clerk to handle the vice-presidential watchdog detail. A law enacted late last year authorized the service to provide full-time protection for Johnson. It construed that as a mandate.

Until last October, the vice president was given protection whenever he asked for it, which wasn't very often. Usually, two agents were assigned when he requested them. He didn't want around-the-clock surveillance.

Hearing Program Scheduled in City Grade Schools

The annual hearing conservation program will be conducted in city schools Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, it was announced today by Robert Wellington, speech therapist.

Students in grades one, three and five will be checked.

The program is conducted annually, according to Wellington, giving each student three check-ups before entering junior high school.

He pointed out the program is beneficial in detecting hearing defects.

The tests will be administered by Wellington and members of the various city parent-teacher groups.

Childhood diseases frequently cause or aggravate defects. Some of these illnesses can be helped with proper medical attention, Wellington pointed out.

IT'S A STRAD?—Mrs. Grace Skilman shows the violin she says is a Stradivarius and which she hopes to sell for enough money to build a new home near Shelbyville, Ind. She says the instrument was in her late husband's family for many years. It has markings which indicate it was made in 1730, seven years before the death of Stradivarius.

Carroll Boy Killed In Highway Collision

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—A 2-year-old boy was killed and his mother and two brothers were injured late Monday night when the car they were in was struck from behind by another, the Highway Patrol reported.

Killed was Jimmy Cremeans of Rt. 1, Carroll.

Injured were his mother, Jean, 23, and two brothers, Ricky, 3, and Terry, 1.

Driving the Cremeans car was the father, Willard A. Cremeans, 26, who was not injured.

The patrol said a car driven by Ray Albert Griffith, 20, of Lancaster struck the rear of the Cremeans car on U.S. 33 four miles north of here. Griffith was not injured.

Girl of 5 Looks in Vain For Parents

BOSTON (AP)—The lame girl from Ecuador looks wistfully from a strange window into a strange street. She fingers her new collection of bright, copper pennies. Then she hears someone entering and turns quickly.

The names "mae, padre" are on her lips. And then she sees it is one of her uncles. Nobody ever answers directly when she asks for her mother and father. Now she asks less and less for the parents who brought her to a Boston hospital last week for an operation—and died together in a hotel fire.

How do you tell a girl of five? That is the question that haunts the minds of Luis del Campos and Patricia Jijon, uncles of Maria Elena Jijon. They flew to Boston Sunday and were still trying today to set up arrangements for sending home the bodies of Fabian Jijon, 39, and his wife, Lola, 34, who perished with two other persons Friday in a 4 a.m. fire in the Sherry Biltmore Hotel.

Plans for the operation on Maria Elena to correct a birth defect in her hip—so that she might walk like other children—now are postponed indefinitely. She will be taken back to Quito where funeral services will be held.

State Loses Another Of Its Health Experts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Winslow Bashe, chief of the state health department's communicable disease division, said he will leave that post this summer to take a teaching position at the University of Cincinnati.

Dr. Bashe, member of the department for 3½ years and division chief for 3½, is the third official of the health department to announce plans to leave in the last few weeks.

Author Dorothy Parker Finds College Teaching Is Difficult

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Famed author Dorothy Parker has cast herself in a new role: teacher. It's not likely to last.

"I don't think I'll try it again," she says. "It is hard work. The only real reward is the one or two or three students you find who are alive and responsive and worth all the trouble."

Miss Parker has been teaching courses in the American and English novel at Los Angeles State College. "I am ashamed to say I had never heard of the college before I went there," she said. "I found it to be a thriving institution of 18,000 students—and 150 parking places."

She has enjoyed certain aspects of the academic life, including association with other teachers, but the location of the college has proved a problem. It is in East Los Angeles, a grueling ride from her Beverly Hills home.

"The freeway terrifies me," she admitted. "I don't drive, which is a good thing for society, because I am near-sighted and given to quick and flighty decisions."

How does she find the new college generation?

"More mature than I expected," she remarked. "More interested in education than my generation was. They seem to be more puritanical, if you can imagine that, and less adventuresome. There is not much dissent. I have counted only three beards out of a student body of 18,000."

She has been struck by the lack of humor in the young crowd. "I can't understand it," she said. "They can't blame it all on The Bomb. They can't worry about it all the time. Why don't they laugh?"

The decline of humor concerns

her—"The deaths of Benchley and Thurber were terrible blows." She can find little that is funny in today's writing and is unable to contribute any herself. She hasn't tried verse for many years—"I think that's something to write when you're young."

The decline of writing generally appalls her. She has kept up with current books with her reviewing post for Esquire magazine which she is resuming after a lapse.

"There is so little worth publishing," she commented, "yet they continue putting out a vast amount of books. And at such terrible prices—$6, $8, $12, $14. The cost of books is getting out of hand. The only hope I see is in the paperbacks, which are doing fine things at reasonable prices."

Miss Parker and her writer husband, Alan Parker, live in a bungalow near the Sunset Strip with their Sealyham and mother-daughter poodles. After a decade in New York, they came back to Hollywood a year ago.

Itinerant Farmer Held for Slaying

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — A young itinerant farm worker who police say admitted discarding a gun and a murdered man's wallet near Athens, Ohio, has been charged with killing Forrest Walker Hubbard, 42, an Arlington, Va., salesman.

Arrested in Hannibal, Mo., and facing return to Virginia this week on the murder charge is Gary L. Humes, 21.

Hubbard's body, with bullet wounds in the head and back, was found Saturday in woods near here. Hubbard's auto was found partly submerged in the Salt River near Louisiana, Mo.

State police say the charge is that Humes killed Hubbard when he allegedly robbed the victim, who had picked up the hitchhiking Humes at Fairfax, Va.

Iraqi Students Shun Soviet Universities

MOSCOW (AP)—Iraqi students are walking off Soviet university campuses and heading home despite pleas from Soviet authorities and their own government to stay.

To prevent an exodus, the Iraqi Embassy is severely limiting the number for whom it will buy plane tickets. So far only 50 have been approved.

Cultural attache Mahmoud Shukri said the students are leaving because of the violent Soviet campaign against Iraq's new Communist-purging government.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS BOYER

Golden Wedding Observance Scheduled Sunday by Boyers

In observance of their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boyer, 1095 S. Washington St., will hold an open house from 2 to 4 p. m. Sunday at their home.

The Boyers will have been married 50 years tomorrow. They were united in marriage on April 3, 1913, in Stoutsville by Rev. Schaffer, pastor of the Lutheran Church.

Mr. Boyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boyer of Washington Twp. Mrs. Boyer, the former Sarah Reid, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Motis Reid of Amanda.

The local couple has lived in the Circleville area all their lives. Mr. Boyer is a retired truck farmer and restaurant operator.

They have 11 children, 36 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren. Their daughters are Mrs. Baldwin Anderson, Mrs. Orville Jacobs, Mrs. Oscar Allen, Mrs. Howard Lemaster, Mrs. Marion Long and Mrs. Harry Binns. Sons are Alva, Ralph and Thomas Jr. all of Circleville; Guy, of Lancaster; and Melvin, stationed in France with the U. S. Army.

Ruth Stout Re-Elected as Club President

Mrs. Marion's Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church met recently in the home of Mrs. Lester Wolford, Route 2, Williamsport, for an election of officers.

The new slate of officers included the re-election of Miss Ruth Stout as president; Mrs. Virgil Cress, vice president; Mrs. Milton Griest, secretary; and Mrs. Forrest Thomerson, treasurer. Twenty members were present.

Mrs. Dwight Steele was in charge of devotions and as part of her subject matter she read "The Legend of the Easter Lily" in memory of deceased members of the class.

During the business meeting, conducted by Miss Stout, letters were read from Mrs. Marion. Stamp books were turned in by members as a class project also being participated in by other women's group of the church.

Members were urged to attend all services during Holy Week at the church.

Games were played with prizes going to Mrs. Roger Lozier and Miss Benadine Yates.

It was announced that the Mothers' Day Banquet will be May 6 at the church. Reservations are to be made by May 3 with Mrs. Cress.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Olan Bostwick and Mrs. Oscar Turner.

Ever use leftover cooked rice in a salad? Make sure the rice grains are firm and separate, then mix with French dressing plus minced sweet onion, minced parsley and a sprinkling of paprika.

Business and Professional Women Elect New Officers

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Circleville met recently in the Methodist Church Annex. The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Emma Curlett, President.

Reports of the various committees were received. Plans were finalized for the Girl Graduate Reception to be held April 25, in the Nicholas Drive School. Dr. Nancy Lu Conrad is general chairman.

Election of officers for the 1963-1964 year was held and the following were elected: Mrs. Charles Curlett, president; Mrs. Paul Brown, first vice president; Mrs. Roloff Wolford, second vice president; Mrs. Daisy Karleskint, recording secretary; Miss Phyllis Ullman, corresponding secretary;

Miss Margie Carmean, treasurer. The club made its selection of the high school girl to represent it at the Girls State to be held at Capital University this summer.

An invitation was received to join the Chillicothe Club in its annual Spring Breakfast on Sunday, April 21, at 10 a. m. in the Warner Hotel, Chillicothe. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Curlett, GR 4-3934 no later than April 15.

Dear Abby: He Wants To Be Witness!

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am about to become a father for the first time. A friend of mine told me that he was present in the delivery room when his wife gave birth to their child. I would like to witness the birth of our child, also, and my wife is all for it. Our problem is that we are now having trouble with her doctor. He tells us that he does not allow fathers in the delivery room. I have asked my wife to change to a doctor who will permit it, but she is afraid to change doctors now as she is in her eighth month. Does her doctor have the right to deny me the privilege of seeing my child born? I think BOTH creators should be on hand at this time.

FATHER-TO-BE
DEAR FATHER: The decision is up to your doctor and the hospital policy-makers. You should have taken this into consideration when your wife selected her doctor. Having failed to do this, be content to let your wife deliver her baby with only one "creator" on hand.

DEAR ABBY: In your column you had a letter from a writer who called her neighbor "Mrs. Thatcheroof". My hobby is collecting unusual surnames, and Thatcheroof is one I've never heard of. Was that her real name or did you make it up? I have in my collection such names as Beaglehole, Blackmonster, Endfinger, Beakiron, Easterday, Rakestraw, Twelveteers, Sourwine and Cakebread.

Friend Sharp On Hill for Pirate Crew

But Vernon Law Finds
Self Reluctant to Pittsburgh Farm Club

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bob Friend has the range from 60 feet, but the 250-foot experiment has failed. Law, and today the pitching partners who brought Pittsburgh a world championship in 1960 were worlds apart. Friend pitched a four-hitter over the nine-inning route Monday as the Pirates defeated Minnesota 5-0 in an exhibition at Orlando, clinching the opening day pitching assignment only hours after Law learned he was leaving the team for awhile.

Law's failure to overcome his shoulder ailment — and the announcement that he would be sent to the club's minor league camp to try and regain the form that made him a 20-game winner in 1960—came on a day filled with events of more than passing interest.

Roger Maris, the New York Yankees' 61-homer hitter of 1961, pulled a hamstring muscle in his left leg while making a diving catch during a 3-2 victory over Detroit at Lakeland, and likely will miss the world champions' season opener a week from today.

Duke Snider, veteran Dodger outfielder, was sold by Los Angeles to the New York Mets. The official confirmation of the much-discussed transaction was made by the Mets, who did not play Monday. The Dodgers were beaten 6-1 by Baltimore at Vero Beach.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs belted Boston 13-3 at San Bernardino, San Francisco edged Cleveland 4-3 at Santa Barbara and the Los Angeles Angels whipped Houston 5-1 in California games. In other Florida action, Washington defeated Milwaukee 4-2 in 10 innings at West Palm Beach, Philadelphia edged St. Louis 5-4 at St. Petersburg and Cincinnati downed Kansas City 4-1 at Bradenton.

Law, a 33-year-old right-hander who posted a 20-9 record in 1960, then followed with 3-4 and 10-7 marks, had been pitching at distances up to 250 feet in an effort to strengthen his arm muscles. The plan failed. Law has pitched in only one exhibition, giving up four runs in three innings.

Law will be sent to Daytona Beach, and may stay until the last minor league club leaves about April 20.

Friend, meanwhile, was mid-season sharp, allowing the Twins only four singles. The Pirates also got only four hits—but Don Clendenon's two-run homer in the sixth wrapped it up.

Maris homered for the Yankees in the top of the fourth, then in the bottom of the inning made a spectacular catch of a Dick McAuliffe liner and wound up on the injury list. Joe Pepitone continued to sizzle for the Yanks, hitting his third homer in two games and eighth of the spring.

Robin Roberts went nine for the Orioles, holding the Dodgers to six hits while Brooks Robinson paced an 11-hit attack with a two-run homer and single.

Lou Brock collected a single, two doubles and a triple while Ron Santo and Ernie Banks hit consecutive homers as the Cubs walked the Red Sox. Tom Haller's two-run homer proved decisive for the Giants as Juan Marichal pitched two-hit ball in his six-inning sting against the Indians.

Don Lee and Julio Navarro combined for a four-hitter as the Angels beat the Colts, Jim King's two-run 10th inning triple gave the Senators their victory over the

Armed Forces Stars To Test College Cagers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Armed Forces All-Stars will pit their experience and smooth team play against a tall, rugged college all-star team in the finals of the Pan-American basketball trials tonight.

The service team, without a starter taller than 6-foot-4, upset the NCAA University All-Stars 75-70 Monday night with Mel Petersen, 6-4 former Wheaton, Ill., player, scoring 20 points.

Tom Thacker, Cincinnati's all-around star, led the university team with 18 points and grabbed 15 rebounds, tops for both teams, despite his 6-2 size. All-America Gary Bradds of Ohio State had 10 points.

The College All-Stars, led by Lucious Jackson and Willis Reed, a pair of 6-foot-9, 240-pound rebounders and scorers, beat the favored AAU All-Stars 85-84.

In the first game tonight, the AAU and NCAA university teams will play.

After the second game, the 20-man United States Olympic Basketball Committee will select a 12-man squad to represent the U.S. in the Pan-American Games at San Paolo, Brazil, April 20-May 5, and in the world tournament at Rio de Janeiro in May. At least five—but no more than seven—players must come from the winner of the trials.

Tiger Cager Named To All-Rival Unit

Tom Smith, Circleville High School's winner of the most valuable player award presented by the Booster Club, has been named to Wilmington's all-opponent basketball team.

Smith scored 32 points against the Hurricane when the South Central Ohio League co-champion team played here.

Other cagers selected to the Wilmington all-opponent team were Carl Weaver, Miami Trace; Tom Townsend and John Thomas, Washington C. H.; Fred Cluff, Hillsboro; Lyle Romine, Pleasant View; Tom Doyle and Jim Coleman, Greenfield.

Little League Registration Set

Registration for the Little League minors and the Little League majors will be held 7 to 9 p. m. Friday and 9 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. Saturday in the 4-H and Grange Building at the Fairgrounds.

This registration is for youngsters 10, 11 and 12 years of age, according to Forrest Brown, secretary of the Circleville Youth Baseball Program, Inc.

The ten-year-old bracket includes boys who are ten on or before July 31 and the 12-year-old bracket includes all youngsters who are 12 by July 31.

Brown emphasized all boys wishing to participate must register. Those who did not play last year must bring birth certificates to the registration.

Braves, the Phillies used a triple by Tony Taylor and a wild pitch in the eighth to beat the Cards and Donlasingame and Gordie Coleman each stroked three hits in the Reds triumph over the A's.

Tiger Cindermen Meet Groveport In First Event

The Circleville High School track team will travel to Groveport tomorrow for its first meet of the season.

The Tigers have Skip Hanson, Carl Zehner, Howard Fletcher, Jerry Shasteen and Jim Wood returning to this year's squad.

However, Shasteen, Hanson and Zehner will not participate Wednesday. Tiger thincled mentor, Carl Benhase reports some of the 23 team members are not yet in good enough condition physically to compete in the meet.

Making the trip for Circleville will be Wood, Larry Plum, Tom McDonald, Lyman England, Tim Mogan, Charles Martin, Doug Pontius, Steve Bowers, Doug Dunkel, Doug Price, Mansil Hurlburt, Jim McCoskey, Gene Smith, Howard Fletcher, Tom Copland.

Time trials were held Friday to determine who would make up the traveling roster for tomorrow's meet.

Benhase is reluctant to make any predictions on the times and possible chances of his thincleds in tomorrow's meet.

"We don't know what Groveport has and without a track we can't predict times that we might have," the first year mentor noted. "After this first meet we will have a clearer picture of our potential."

The SCOL Cinder, a publication of the league track coaches lists the Tigers as one of the strong contenders to dethrone Wilmington, defending track champions.

The Tigers finished third in the SCOL track meet last year. However, the publication also notes no less than six league schools may be in the race for the title.

All Circleville track meets are scheduled away due to the lack of facilities here.

Birdie Says His Indians Ready To Go

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Birdie Tebbetts says his Cleveland Indians are ready now to open the season, which starts for a week from today against Minnesota in Minneapolis.

"The boys are on their toes and ready," Tebbetts said Monday. "I'm especially pleased with the way the pitching has come around in the last week. Everybody I've started has done a good job."

The Tribe's field boss singled out 20-game winner Dick Donovan, who blanked San Francisco on one hit through three innings in a game which Cleveland lost 4-3.

"Donovan did very well," Tebbetts said. "I pitched him only three innings because I wanted to look at a couple of youngsters who hadn't worked much."

The veteran right-hander's performance was the best so far this spring. The one hit Donovan allowed was a bad-hop single.

Although Tebbetts has made no official announcement, it appears Donovan will pitch the home opener April 11 in Cleveland against Detroit rather than the first game of the season.

"It's a bigger honor to make the home start," said Tebbetts. "and Dick earned it by winning 20 games last season."

Pounded hard by opposing batsmen in previous spring training exhibition games, Donovan didn't seem to worry about it. He claimed he was concentrating on his control.

Wittenberg Basketball Coach Speaks at SCO Loop Banquet

Eldon Miller, youthful head basketball coach at Wittenberg University at Springfield was featured speaker at the South Central Ohio League's spring banquet last night at Miami Trace High School.

The annual event, held to honor the All-League basketball players and the championship teams, also honored track, baseball and football participants.

Miller in his speech to the coaches and athletes present at the meeting, cited ability, attitude, training, desire and community support as requisites of producing winning teams.

Miller was voted the most valuable player of the 1961 NCAA small college tournament. He guided Wittenberg to a runner up slot in the event this year.

At 23 he is one of the youngest head coaches in college basketball.

GUESTS of the coaches from Circleville High School were Jack Cook and Freddie Moore, All-League baseball team members in 1962; Tom Bivens, Tim Dickinson, Bruce Helwage and Robert Fuhrman, members of the first SCO championship golf team; and Jimmie Wood, 180-yard low hurdle champion in the 1962 league track meet.

Also presented last night were the National Football Hall of Fame award to the team having the highest scholastic average of its varsity lettermen for the first semester of the present school year and the award to the outstanding scholar-athlete in the league.

Miami Trace, with a team scholastic average of 2.73 was the recipient of the team award. The league average was 2.36.

David Craig was the winner of the individual award.

Jack Cannon, former All-American football player at Notre Dame and a member of the Central Ohio unit of the Football Hall of Fame, made the presentations.

Members of the All-League cage team recognized at last night's meeting were Carl Weaver and Dave Craig of Miami Trace;

Larry Kirk and Rick Baker of Wilmington, Fred Cluff of Hillsboro and John Thomas of Washington C.H.

Second team members were Tom Doyle, Greenfield; Richard Redd, Miami Trace; Lyle Romine, Pleasant View; Tom Townsend, Washington C. H.; Terry McConaughy, Hillsboro; Larry Graves, Franklin Heights.

Jack Gill, Wilmington High School cage mentor and Dan Hinten, head coach at Miami Trace, were presented identical trophies for the league cage co-championship.

The Chicago White Sox hit only six home runs against Cleveland pitchers last season.

Baseball Directors

GUESTS of the coaches from Circleville High School were Jack Cook and Freddie Moore. All-League baseball team members in 1962: Tom Bivens, Tim Dickinson, Bruce Helwagen and Robert Fuhrman, members of the first SCO championship golf team; and Jimmie Wood, 180-yard low hurdle champion in the 1962 league track meet.

Also presented last night were the National Football Hall of Fame award to the team having the highest scholastic average of its varsity lettermen for the first semester of the present school year and the award to the outstanding scholar-athlete in the league.

Miami Trace, with a team scholastic average of 2.73 was the recipient of the team award. The league average was 2.36.

David Craig was the winner of the individual award.

Jack Cannon, former All-American football player at Notre Dame and a member of the Central Ohio unit of the Football Hall of Fame, made the presentations.

Members of the All-League cage team recognized at last night's meeting were Carl Weaver and Dave Craig of Miami Trace;

Larry Kirk and Rick Baker of Wilmington, Fred Cluff of Hillsboro and John Thomas of Washington C.H.

Second team members were Tom Doyle, Greenfield; Richard Redd, Miami Trace; Lefe Romine, Pleasant View; Tom Townsend, Washington C. H.; Terry McConaughy, Hillsboro; Larry Graves, Franklin Heights.

Jack Gill, Wilmington High School cage mentor and Dan Hinten, head coach at Miami Trace, were presented identical trophies for the league cage co-championship.

The Chicago White Sox hit only six home runs against Cleveland pitchers last season.

Baseball Directors To Meet Wednesday

The April meeting of the Circleville Youth Baseball Program Board of Directors will be held 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds, it was announced today by Forrest Brown secretary of the organization.

Johnny Temple hit 263 in 78 games for Baltimore last season. He hit the same figure playing in the last 31 games for Houston.

Nelson Flirts With Comeback

Lord Byron Hoping To Star in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—At the age of 50, after 20 years of semi-retirement and casual, token tournament appearances, Byron Nelson is flirting with ideas of a comeback.

The Masters Tournament, starting Thursday, may serve as a springboard back to bigtime golf for the lean Roanoke, Tex., cattle rancher, the mechanical marvel of the late 1930s and early 1940s.

"I don't say I'm going back on the tour or that I'm going to push all these strong, young fellows aside," Nelson said today. "But I've decided it would be interesting to get my game back in the best possible shape and see how I'd fare."

"I've always kept myself in good physical condition. I've changed my outlook so that I'm not so scared any more. I've worked harder on my game than I have in several years. I still am afflicted with putting nerves—that's age, I guess—but I've built up a lot of confidence."

Nelson came to the Augusta National Course after two weeks of intensive practice. On his first practice round, he had a 76. Then he had a 73. The third time it was 70, two under par.

Last weekend, television viewers were treated to the new, rejuvenated Nelson. Teaming with his protegee, Ken Venturi, he almost singlehandedly beat the team of Arnold Palmer and Gary Player in a best-ball match, scoring four birdies in a row.

Now the rangy, graying Texan is one of the hardest working of the 82 players practicing for the 27th Masters—first on and last off the practice tees.

Bo Belinsky To Marry Hollywood Actress

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Southpaw Bo Belinsky of the Los Angeles Angels says he's planning on marrying actress Mamie Van Doren, but hasn't gotten around to buying her a ring.

"She's my kind of girl," the pitcher said in explaining his intentions. "I like her a lot. In fact, I'm mad about her, but things are too unstable to think of a wedding date now."

"I'm just plain nutty about Bo," Miss Van Doren said in Hollywood.

Snider Returns To Big City

Mets Buy Flatbush Slugger from Bums

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Duke Snider, the king of Flatbush, is headed back to the city that gave him the royal treatment—both cheers and boos—joining seven other former Dodger teammates on the New York Mets.

His waist a little wider and his hair a little whiter, the 36-year-old slugger who spent 11 years in a Brooklyn uniform and 16 years as a Dodger, officially was sold to the Mets Monday night for a price in the $30,000-40,000 neighborhood.

The left-handed swinging outfielder has been the subject of a cloak-and-dagger transaction that has been rumored for weeks. The deal finally was confirmed by Met's President George Weiss while Snider was en route to the West Coast.

In Albuquerque, Snider stepped off a plane, denied reports he had asked to be traded so he could play regularly, but noted that "it'll be interesting playing for Casey Stengel (Mets manager)." Snider said he was sad, but had expected "to feel a lot worse."

Snider, whose lifetime National League achievements include a .300 batting average, 1,995 hits, 1,271 runs batted in and 389 homers, plans to spend a few days with his family in Fallbrook, Calif., before joining the Mets. He said his wife and four children would probably come to New York in May.

An outspoken critic of baseball's boo-birds, Snider was a hero to the Ebets Field crowds that jammed into the now dismantled park to watch the Dodger stars of the 1950s—Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, PeeWee Reese, Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges, the latter now also with the Mets.

To the cheers, Snider would doff his cap. To the boos, Snider would respond with a verbal attack. The fans always came back to applaud.

OSU Aide To Help Train Junior Davis Cuppers

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. John Hendrix, Ohio State University tennis coach, will help train America's young tennis players who are under 21 years of age.

He was appointed vice chairman of the U.S. Junior Davis Cup Program Monday by Robert S. Malsga, vice chairman of the Davis Cup Committee and head of the Junior Davis Cup activities.

Cincy Royals Change Hands Second Time

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals have changed hands again—while the team still was in the middle of the Eastern Division National Basketball Association playoffs.

Warren Hensel, wealthy Cincinnati businessman and minority stockholder, said Monday night he had completed a deal to buy 56 per cent of the club's stock from the Emprise Corp. of Buffalo, N.Y.

Emprise, operated by wealthy concessionaire Louis M. Jacobs, was to retain control of Cincinnati Gardens where the Royals play.

Emprise acquired the Royals and Gardens, stock Friday in a purchase from the estate of the late Thomas E. Wood. Reliable sources indicated the sale involved about $500,000.

Hensel declined to give any financial details, but said he was in the Royals' deal alone.

Hensel, 48-year-old manufacturer's representative and distributor, said he planned to retain the team in Cincinnati.

In Albuquerque, Snider stepped off a plane, denied reports he had asked to be traded so he could play regularly, but noted that "it'll be interesting playing for Casey Stengel (Mets manager)." Snider said he was sad, but had expected "to feel a lot worse."

Snider, whose lifetime National League achievements include a .300 batting average, 1,995 hits, 1,271 runs batted in and 389 homers, plans to spend a few days with his family in Fallbrook, Calif., before joining the Mets. He said his wife and four children would probably come to New York in May.

An outspoken critic of baseball's boo-birds, Snider was a hero to the Elbets Field crowds that jammed into the now dismantled park to watch the Dodger stars of the 1950s—Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, PeeWee Reese, Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges, the latter now also with the Mets.

To the cheers, Snider would doff his cap. To the boos, Snider would respond with a verbal attack. The fans always came back to applaud.

OSU Aide To Help Train Junior Davis Cuppers

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. John Hendrix, Ohio State University tennis coach, will help train America's young tennis players who are under 21 years of age.

He was appointed vice chairman of the U.S. Junior Davis Cup Program Monday by Robert S. Malsga, vice chairman of the Davis Cup Committee and head of the Junior Davis Cup activities.

Michigan OKs New Form of Constitution

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan voters adopted a new state constitution Monday in a spring election that enhanced Gov. George Romney's political prestige.

With virtually all of the state's 5,209 precincts reporting, the tally gave the revised constitution a winning margin of some 9,000 votes.

Fate of the new constitution—which replaces a 55-year-old document—appeared in doubt early in the unofficial vote tabulations, but a recheck of a key county swung the tally in favor of adoption early today.

Romney, whose election to the governorship last fall ended 14 years of Democratic rule in the executive office, campaigned for adoption of the revised document as strenuously and frequently as the duties of his office would permit. As a delegate to the constitutional convention, he helped write the document.

Under the new constitution, the state agencies will be concentrated into 20 major departments with lines of authority more sharply drawn.

Other changes would lengthen the term of the governorship from two years to four; reapportion the state Senate on a formula based 80 per cent on population and 20 per cent on area; establish a court of appeals under the Supreme Court; eliminate the office of justice of the peace; bar a graduated income tax and establish the nation's first constitutional Civil Rights Commission.

Columbus Reserve Idea Hit by Solon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any idea of purchasing new sites for two Army Reserve centers in Columbus, Ohio, is "a fantastic, unthinkable raid upon our federal treasury," Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, says.

Young told the Senate Monday that the Army is giving serious consideration to such purchases when the Fort Hayes military installation, in the heart of the city, would provide an excellent location.

The Army plans to abandon Fort Hayes in 1965.

"We talk about saving taxpayers' money. Here is one place we can do that very easily," the senator asserted.

Man Faces Hearing In Ashtabula Theft

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP)—A 34-year-old man was to be arraigned today in Common Pleas Court in connection with the burglary of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise from Anderson's Department Store on U. S. 20 near Ashtabula.

William Hoseny was arrested in Cleveland, and sheriff's deputies said 100 wrist watches and considerable other merchandise was found in his hotel room. Transistor radios, boxes of cigars and luggage were among the items found.

Store officials valued the loot at $25,000 after the burglary Saturday, but Monday they said the total could go much higher, possibly as high as $40,000.

Business Briefs

Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. reported earnings on common shares for the 12 month period ending Feb. 28, were $10.153,000, equal to $3.63 per share, based on 2,800,000 shares outstanding, according to Harry M. Miller, president.

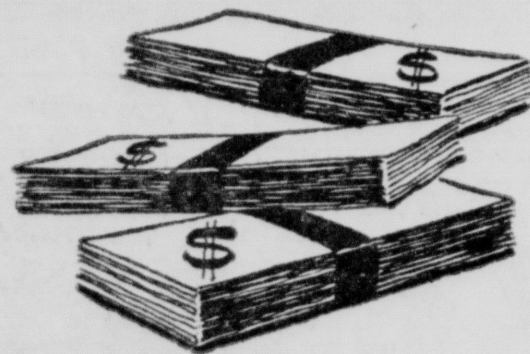

Operating revenues for the same period were $65,066,000, a gain of 7.5 per cent while operating expenses climbed 9.1 per cent, to a total of $50,138,000. Kilowatt hour sales of 3,033,852,000 were up 9.2 per cent over the previous 12 month period.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Skies were mostly fair over Ohio Monday night as unseasonably warm air covered the state.

Nighttime temperatures were close to what would normally be daytime high readings. At sunrise Chesapeake was a mild 67, Columbus 55 and Cincinnati and Youngstown 61.

Fair weather is expected today with afternoon temperatures close to or exceeding all-time high records for the state.

Tonight will also be fair and mild, but as moisture increases by Wednesday, scattered afternoon thundershowers may occur.

Temperatures Wednesday afternoon will again reach the upper 70s and low 80s over the state.
